

U.S. Steel Industries Lay Off Thousands

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The nation's steel industry, faced with sluggish demand, increased foreign competition and declining profits, is laying off thousands of workers and cutting production.

Whatever happens in the industry is likely to be felt by all consumers because steel is used in everything from paper clips to railroad tracks.

The largest single impact is on the auto industry. Some Detroit analysts are predicting the sticker price of 1978 models will go up by as much as $300, at least in part because of increasing steel costs.

"We may well be past the point of salvation for some steel producers," C. William Verity, chairman of Armco Steel Corp., told a House trade subcommittee this week.

First half steel profits, at $289.5 million, were 60 per cent below those reported a year earlier despite a 7 per cent sales gain. At that rate, the industry will end 1977 with its worst results since 1971.

The crisis has already led to one bankruptcy and a flurry of layoffs, including those in steel towns like Youngstown, Ohio, where Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. plans to dismiss 5,000 persons within three months.

Neither steel industry sources nor the United Steelworkers could say Thursday just how many workers are out of work, but estimates range up to 100,000.

The pace of cutbacks has picked up since mid-year.

About 3,000 steelworkers were laid off when the Alan Wood Steel Co. in suburban Philadelphia went bankrupt after losing $34.4 million over the last three years.

Bethlehem Steel, the nation's second-largest producer, said it would lay off 7,300 workers in flood-ravaged Johnstown, Pa., and Lackawanna, N.Y., after losing $75.4 million through June 30.

U.S. Steel, the nation's largest producer, has announced some layoffs, including 200 in the Youngstown area. It has also asked 10,000 management employees to forego a cost-of-living increase.

Other producers have either announced reductions or are considering them. More cuts are likely.

Some analysts argue the current crisis may be healthy, however, because it may eliminate marginal firms and leave a stronger, more profitable steel industry.

The industry is struggling with a number of problems, some historic, some political. Imports are its principle target, however.

The American Iron and Steel Institute, a trade association representing 95 per cent of the nation's producers, estimates that imports will account for 19 per cent of the domestic market in 1977.

These imports have absorbed 74 per cent of the market's growth, forcing American producers to look for profits in the narrow gap between rising costs and low prices.

Congress Opposes Remaining Under SALT Limitations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration's decision to unilaterally remain under the restrictions of the expiring strategic arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union is swiftly encountering opposition from Congress.

The administration position was disclosed Thursday in a letter from Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance to the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, John J. Sparkman, D-Ala.

Vance decided on the tactic when it became apparent that the current Strategic Arms Limitation Treaty, signed in 1972, would expire on Oct. 3 without a new U.S.-Soviet agreement to replace it.

Vance and President Carter were continuing negotiations today with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko at the White House.

Vance said in his Thursday letter that the United States will honor the expiring agreement "provided the Soviet Union exercise similar restraint."

Questioned by reporters about Soviet intentions, Gromyko was noncommittal Thursday. But State Department spokesman Hodding Carter told reporters later that he believes the Soviet Union also will issue a statement pledging continued adherence to the 1972 agreement.

That agreement, known as SALT I, sets limits on land-based and submarine-launched intercontinental ballistic missiles of the two superpowers.

The Vance statement brought immediate signs of an impending clash between the administration and defense-oriented members of Congress.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., was said by aides to be planning hearings on the administration plan. Jackson heads the Senate Armed Services Committee's subcommittee on arms control.

Jackson is regarded as one of the Senate's most knowledgeable arms experts and other senators often look to him for guidance on this issue. He has been an outspoken critic of the arms policies of past administrations, claiming they made excessive concessions to the Soviets.

Jackson led the Senate opposition to the first SALT pact in 1972.

But Vance received key endorsements for his policy from Rep. Clement J. Zablocki, D-Wis., the chairman of the House International Relations Committee, and the ranking minority member, William S.

Broomfield, D-Mich.

Essentially at issue is the question of whether such an informal extension of the SALT agreement is properly subject to congressional review. An arms control law states that congressional consent is required on any action that limits U.S. armaments.

Decision On Landing Rights For Concorde To Be Made

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Carter administration today proposed noise and other rules that would permit the supersonic Concorde to fly to as many as 12 U.S. cities.

Transportation Secretary Brock Adams said the proposed rules are "designed to protect the health and safety of the American people, set a fair and reasonable noise standard for SST operations and strike a balance between legitimate domestic and international interests of the United States."

The rules will be opened for public comment and it may be several months before they are adopted.

Until that time, Adams said the British-French Concorde can continue to serve Dulles International Airport near Washington under present restrictions.

A 16-month trial period ends Saturday at Dulles for the Concorde.

The secretary said the administration "continues to support a trial period of up to four Concorde flights a day" into New York City's Kennedy International Airport.

The Concorde had been authorized to conduct a 16-month trial at Kennedy, but this has been blocked by court action.

Adams said that once new rules are established for the supersonic plane, the British and French could fly the plane into a dozen cities on which the Department of Transportation has conducted SST environmental impact investigations.

The issue has created domestic and foreign political problems for President Carter, since a New York City ban on Concorde trial operations strained relations between the United States and two old friends, Britain and France.

Meanwhile, the General Accounting Office reported Thursday that permitting landing rights for the Concorde or any other aircraft "that cannot presently meet, or be modified to meet, U.S. noise standards would be a backward step in the national noise abatement effort."

The GAO said its investigation showed the Concorde is about twice as noisy on takeoff as a Boeing 747, that it does not meet present U.S. subsonic standards and "cannot be modified or retrofitted to reduce its noise level."

The 13 communities where the plane would receive landing rights under one administration option are Anchorage, Boston, Chicago, Dallas-Fort Worth, Honolulu, Houston, Los Angeles, Miami, Newark, New York, Seattle-Tacoma, San Francisco and Washington.

The administration's Concorde decision climaxes a controversy begun in February 1976, when then-Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman authorized 16 months of test flights between Paris and London and Washington's Dulles and New York's John F. Kennedy International Airport.

12-Year-Old Boy Opens Illinois Railroad Museum

PECATONICA, Ill. (AP) — Twelve-year-old Joey Moth couldn't wait to grow up to become a railroad man. So he didn't.

Wearing a conductor's cap and an Illinois Central-Gulf T shirt, Joey passes out printed calling cards touting his "Pecatonica Railroad Museum" in the family garage.

He has a well-lighted, neatly-arranged display of thousands of railroad paraphernalia. There are dozens of railroad spikes, spike buckets, signal lights, the plates, old timetables, tools, railroad lanterns, Amtrak brochures, old airbrake hoses, and even a potbelly stove from a caboose.

Joey has a guest register signed by 230 visitors this past summer, some from Canada, New York, Oregon and Florida. There is no admission charge, but Joey will take donations.

"Three railroad men left me $1 each," he said. "I got $45 during the summer. It goes into the bank with the $200 I got from selling my three sets of model trains with 120 cars."

"My bedroom was so full of the stuff

I couldn't get to my bed. I'm saving to open a big museum. I want to buy a depot along the tracks. I want a couple of miles of tracks and a switch engine."

A Pennsylvania Railroad advertising calendar from 1935 hangs on one wall and a Postal Telegraph clock on another.

Pointing to a 10-volume set of 1906 encyclopedias, "Modern American Railway Practices," Joey notes: "They tell about steam trains and how to work on them and how to build your own system. There aren't too many sets like that left."

Outside the garage, Joey has spiked a short section of old tracks to ties, installed a couple of switches and put up an old railroad crossing sign.

"Most of the stuff was given to Joey when the railroad was closed through Pecatonica," said his mother, Marilyn. "Other stuff he finds walking along old railroad grades. Ever so often I drive him to Seward (seven miles) to watch the trains go by. And he likes to chat with the railroad crews. He sweeps out the Illinois Central depot while he's there."

Gas Company Defeats Crystal City, Texas After Two-Year Battle

CRYSTAL CITY, Tex. (AP) — Crystal City, the "Spinach Capital of the World" with a statue of "Popeye the Sailor Man" to prove it, battled the local gas company for more than two years. It finally lost.

In defeat the townspeople, mostly Mexican-Americans half of whom are on welfare, were scurrying about in search of firewood, charcoal or butane to cook with. What amounted to a free supply of natural gas ends today.

"I guess we're going to be like General Robert E. Lee. I guess it's a surrender," said Mayor Francisco Benavides. "We've fought as hard as we know how, but there's nothing else we can do. We just threw in the towel."

For 2½ years the town's municipal utility which serves 2,000 customers of Lo-Vaca Gathering Co. has refused to pay its bill, now almost $800,000. The town claims its 8,000 people simply didn't have the money.

The utility had kept the gas flowing through legal maneuvers, the last of which was resolved Thursday when the state Supreme Court declined to step into the case.

The day before, an appeals court in El Paso barred further legal proceedings and gave Lo-Vaca the okay to shut off the gas.

In the unregulated Texas gas market, Lo-Vaca had given Crystal City a break, charging only 36 cents per thousand cubic feet on gas it could have sold for as much as $2.

Still, Crystal City said it couldn't pay and there the matter rested until Thursday.

Mayor Benavides, though resigned to the shut-off, flew to Washington to appeal to Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen.

"We don't expect miracles, but we have to try. There's no doubt in anyone's mind there will be a cutoff," said the mayor who a few months ago had defied "even Gov. Dolph Briscoe's gendarmes" to try to stop the gas from coming in.

"I don't know what we will do without gas and I don't know how long we will be without," he said. "But this is America. If we can put a man on the moon, somehow we can find gas for a small Texas city."

Western Farmers Threaten To Strike

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — Farmers pressing for federal guarantees of higher crop prices have received little encouragement from Secretary of Agriculture Robert Bergland and are threatening to strike in December.

They heard Bergland, a former farmer from Minnesota, declare: "I know something of the risks, heartaches, excitement and frustration of this business ... but I'm not able to work miracles."

PET CEMETERY IS THE PROPER WAY — But, there are many people who let go of their pets improperly. In the county, 1,965 dogs have been abandoned so far this year. It is estimated that it will be at the 3,000 mark by the year's end, and this doesn't include the number of abandoned cats. There were 48 animals collected the past two weeks at the animal shelter, nine dogs were adopted, leaving the rest to be destroyed. The local Humane Society suggests being nice to your pets — leashing and neutering them — as mentioned during Pet Responsibility week. This will keep down the number of unwanted pets roaming around the area. This pet cemetery is located on Ringgold Southern Road, to the left off of Route 22 East.

Der Bingle Crooning Way Through Europe

PRESTON, England (AP) — Bing Crosby is crooning his way through England, opening his latest concert tour in an area where his last audience was made up of American servicemen during World War II.

Thursday night, Britons got their turn, and more than 2,000 mostly middle-aged people crammed into Preston's Guild Hall as the 73-year-old Crosby went gingerly through his act.

Although he still suffers from back trouble that began earlier this year when he fell from a stage, the voice that has seen Crosby through 50 years of stardom was still strong. He opened with, "I've Got A Dog Named Rover," a song he first performed at the age of 13.

Crosby, whose show moves to Manchester tonight and then to London, last performed in northwestern England during the war, when he sang for servicemen at Burtonwood Air Base in Warrington.

Vice-Presidential Aide Pleads Guilty To Nude Sunbathing

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — Deborah Sale, the vice presidential aide arrested last month for sunbathing topless on a Long Island beach, has pleaded guilty to the charge.

An attorney for Miss Sale entered the plea in Southampton Justice Court on Thursday. She is due to appear there again next Thursday for sentencing.

Miss Sale was arrested on Gibson Beach Aug. 20 for not wearing the top of her bathing suit. She was one of more than a dozen people arrested this year and charged with breaking the town's ordinance against nude sunbathing.

Miss Sale said she was lying face down on the beach with the top of her bathing suit untied for an even tan when she was approached by police and cited.

Carter To Visit Four Continents

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter announced today he will embark in late November on an 11-day, four-continent trip that will include the first visit of an American president to black Africa.

Carter's journey to South America, Africa, Asia and Europe will, in geographical terms, be the most ambitious ever undertaken by a U.S. President. He will be conferring with close allies, newfound friends and sometime adversaries.

The eight-nation tour, which will begin on Nov. 22, the 14th anniversary of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, was announced on Carter's behalf by his national security affairs adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski.

Absent from Carter's itinerary are any contacts with Soviet or Middle Eastern officials directly involved in the two major foreign policy questions that currently confront the President — arms curbs and the search for a Middle East settlement.

The journey, described by Brzezinski as underlining Carter's commitment to "constructive change" in the world, will take the President to Venezuela, Brazil, Nigeria, India, Iran, France, Poland and Belgium.

He will return to the White House Dec. 2.

Responding to questions, Brzezinski said no consideration had been given during the months of long planning of the trip for a possible meeting with Soviet President Leonid I. Brezhnev. However, Brzezinski did not totally exclude the possibility.

Asked why Carter was not including the troubled Middle East in the schedule, Brzezinski said, "There are just so many things you can include in an itinerary."

Brzezinski said that muchpublicized differences between the United States and Brazil and to a lesser extent Iran over human rights issues were no bar to visiting those countries.

He said human rights issues were "not a precondition" for serious dealings with other nations.

Mrs. Carter will accompany her husband on the trip. When Carter made his only other overseas trip, to London and Geneva last May, she remained in Washington.

The President had indicated almost a year ago he expected to do little traveling overseas, at least during his first year in office.

"His preference is to stay at home," Brzezinski said, and argued that Carter indeed has done little traveling outside the country.

Nov. 22 — flies to Caracas, Venezuela for an overnight stay.

Nov. 23 — on to the Brazilian capital of Brasilia, where Carter will spend the night.

Nov. 24 — flies across the South Atlantic to Lagos, Nigeria, remaining there a full day.

Nov. 26 — leaves Lagos for the Indian capital of New Delhi, arriving Nov. 27.

Nov. 29 — stops in Tehran, Iran, for a brunch with the Shah of Iran, and continues on to Paris the same day.

Dec. 1 — flies from Paris to Warsaw, spending a night in the Polish capital.

Dec. 2 — flies to Brussels for meetings with Belgian officials, European Common Market leaders and officials of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization before returning to Washington the same day.

Americans Returned From Mexican Jails To Get No Soft Life

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The U.S. Justice Department has warned Americans clamoring to get out of Mexican jails not to expect a soft life if they are transferred home to serve out their terms.

A 92-page pamphlet explaining the transfer program to American prisoners cautions them not to expect stereotypes in their cells, conjugal visits or maid service, which some enjoy through bribery in Mexico.

A U.S. official said Thursday that as many as 20 per cent of the Americans who will be eligible for transfers may choose to serve out their terms in Mexico because they can buy comforts not available in American prisons.

Michael Abbell, special assistant in the Justice Department's criminal division, said the booklet's question-and-answer section spelling out U.S. prison restrictions on family visits, personal property, money limitations, cigarettes, musical instruments and gifts has already led some prisoners to decide against transferring.

"They like the conjugal visits in Mexican jails. They know that they won't have stereotypes in their cells in jails in the United States," said Abbell, who is in charge of interviewing prisoners to see if they want to return to the United States.

However, a majority of the 569 known American prisoners in Mexico are frustrated with delays in the transfer program and anxious for repatriation, which would include immediate parole hearings.

In June, a group of Americans complained bitterly to a U.S. Senate committee of brutal beatings and torture with electric cattle prods by Mexican police. They said they had to bribe Mexican officials to secure their legal rights, to obtain food and medical care and even to get space in prison cells.

A month later President Carter was sent a sheet stained with the blood of American prisoners in Mexico and a letter pleading for speedy action on the prisoner exchange program, which was agreed upon in a U.S.-Mexican treaty signed last November.

The Senate ratified the treaty July 21, but enabling legislation still must be approved before the exchange program can begin.

Not eligible for transfer are the 30 Americans jailed in Mexico for smuggling illegal aliens. Also excluded are prisoners who committed offenses punishable in Mexico but not in the United States.

Water Supplies Need Controls

CINCINNATI (AP) — Uniform levels should be devised for determining if, and when, organic compounds are threatening water supplies, according to the chairman of the National Drinking Water Advisory Council.

There are currently many sets of such standards, Charles C. Johnson told a symposium on organic compounds in water supplies Thursday.

"The basis in establishing those standards are not always the same," Johnson explained. "Under the current procedures, there is no methodology to determine when a problem exists."

"We've got to have as uniform a criterion as possible," Johnson concluded.

Johnson's point was illustrated last February when there was confusion among state and federal officials about the degree of danger posed by a 70-ton slug of carbon tetrachloride which had made its way down the Ohio River.

The water supply expert's talk came at the start of the all-day symposium which was designed to explore the subject of organic compounds in drinking water.

The program, coordinated by the Ohio River Valley Sanitation Commission, attracted about 200 persons including several high school science classes and representatives from local governments from Portsmouth, Ohio, to Madison, Ind.

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The U.S. Justice Department has warned Americans clamoring to get out of Mexican jails not to expect a soft life if they are transferred home to serve out their terms.

A 92-page pamphlet explaining the transfer program to American prisoners cautions them not to expect stereotypes in their cells, conjugal visits or maid service, which some enjoy through bribery in Mexico.

A U.S. official said Thursday that as many as 20 per cent of the Americans who will be eligible for transfers may choose to serve out their terms in Mexico because they can buy comforts not available in American prisons.

Michael Abbell, special assistant in the Justice Department's criminal division, said the booklet's question-and-answer section spelling out U.S. prison restrictions on family visits, personal property, money limitations, cigarettes, musical instruments and gifts has already led some prisoners to decide against transferring.

"They like the conjugal visits in Mexican jails. They know that they won't have stereotypes in their cells in jails in the United States," said Abbell, who is in charge of interviewing prisoners to see if they want to return to the United States.

However, a majority of the 569 known American prisoners in Mexico are frustrated with delays in the transfer program and anxious for repatriation, which would include immediate parole hearings.

In June, a group of Americans complained bitterly to a U.S. Senate committee of brutal beatings and torture with electric cattle prods by Mexican police. They said they had to bribe Mexican officials to secure their legal rights, to obtain food and medical care and even to get space in prison cells.

A month later President Carter was sent a sheet stained with the blood of American prisoners in Mexico and a letter pleading for speedy action on the prisoner exchange program, which was agreed upon in a U.S.-Mexican treaty signed last November.

The Senate ratified the treaty July 21, but enabling legislation still must be approved before the exchange program can begin.

Not eligible for transfer are the 30 Americans jailed in Mexico for smuggling illegal aliens. Also excluded are prisoners who committed offenses punishable in Mexico but not in the United States.

USDA's Treaty Promotion Produces Only Mild Response

WASHINGTON (AP) — A campaign by the Agriculture Department to help sell President Carter's Panama Canal treaty to the American public so far has produced only mild response from rural areas.

About 2,600 copies of "Fact Sheet...U.S. Agriculture and the Panama Canal Treaties" have been mailed to newspaper, magazine, radio and television farm editors, state agricultural officials, extension offices and others to explain the treaty and how farmers depend on the canal.

The push began Sept. 15 when Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland and other administration officials briefed farm groups, exporters and other agricultural interests on the treaty. Later, a similar session was held for reporters.

Bergland said the briefings were entirely a USDA show and the project was not ordered or otherwise directed by the White House. He said the information material would be sent to USDA field offices which then would make it available to the public.

A spokesman said Thursday that requests for information have been coming into the USDA at the rate of "about five a day, which is routine for something that's just been mentioned" so recently.

Meanwhile, a nationwide Associated Press public opinion poll conducted Monday night showed that the treaty is opposed by the American people, with 50 per cent of the adults questioned saying they are against the pact which would relinquish U.S. control of the canal to Panama by the year 2000.

Twenty-nine per cent favored the treaty and 21 per cent were undecided.

The AP poll, based on interviews with 1,548 adults, did not involve an occupational breakdown, and thus did not indicate specifically how farmers and other rural residents viewed the treaty.

Although a Senate ratification vote is not scheduled until next year, Carter is banking on a national "education" effort to help win the two-thirds vote needed for Senate approval.

There are actually two treaties, but they are considered indivisible. One calls for the United States to turn the canal over to Panama by the year 2000 and the other would always permit the United States to militarily ensure its neutrality.

EPA Reports Radioactive Levels Normal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency reported Thursday that air samples taken around Ohio showed radioactive levels remained normal while a cloud of nuclear debris from a Chinese bomb test passed over the state.

This and a lack of rainfall across the state minimized the threat of radioactive contamination of pastures or forage crops.

The Ohio Agriculture Department advised dairymen that cows no longer had to be kept from pastures in areas where no rainfall was expected before Saturday morning.

The USDA fact sheet is four and a half pages of brief explanations of canal history, use, previous treaties, growing Panamanian discontent and development of the new treaty, which was signed in Washington on Sept. 7 by Carter and Panamanian leader Omar Torrijos.

Although the fact sheet does not say flatly that the pact is essential to U.S. interests, that message is strongly implied by the overall context of the fact sheet. For example, one paragraph on the new treaty says:

"In negotiating new treaties, the U.S. believes its national interest lies in assuring that the canal continues to be efficiently operated, secure, neutral, and open to all nations on a nondiscriminatory basis. The U.S. considers the cooperation of Panama as fundamental to these goals."

Showers Forecast

By The Associated Press

A chance of showers exists for most of Ohio tonight with showers and possible thundershowers becoming more numerous Saturday.

A low pressure area moving east through the Mississippi Valley and into the Great Lakes region will cause the rain.

Cloudiness was variable over the state Thursday and some areas of heavy fog had formed in parts of southern Ohio just before daybreak. Temperatures at dawn ranged from the mid 50s to low 60s.

FCC May Start CB Training Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — A government advisory group is considering a standardized training program aimed at teen-agers that it hopes would improve Citizens Band radio communications.

The program would be designed for youths because they are more accessible, not because they are considered the most frequent violators of CB rules.

Although a CB license applicant must certify he has a copy of Federal Communications Commission regulations, no test of his knowledge is required.

Indeed, some CBers wonder whether the rules are even read.

But Arlan VanDoorn, deputy chief of the FCC's Safety and Special Radio Services Bureau, reports "a lot of demand for an official FCC educational package" including one that could be combined with high school driver education programs.

A task force of the FCC's Personal User Radio Advisory Committee — PURAC — has come up with just such a program, "designed, focused and directed toward teaching young people."

"These people, for the most part, do not have outside responsibilities and are attending school full time," says the task force report submitted PURAC consideration next month.

"Therefore, if educational credits were offered for a CB training course, these people would be much more likely (than their elders) to take it."

If accepted by PURAC, the report would be submitted for FCC consideration.

The report says older persons, "trying to make a living and/or raise a family ... have little time or incentive to attend classes for any type of CB course. ...

"We do not believe," it continues,

"anyone or any organization can entice the general nonschool-going public to attend a school on any subject."

"The average CBER already believes that he is knowledgeable about his CB and indeed uses it every day."

The proposed program would include six regular sessions and two optional advanced ones.

The first would include an introduction to CB radio, licensing requirements and an explanation of the FCC and its CB rules and regulations.

Session No. 2 would teach methods of installing and safely using CB radios. Subsequent topics would be proper CB use, and the operation of radio transceivers, antennas, and accessories and test equipment.

The optional sessions would involve discussions of noise and interference and ways to best utilize the CB system.

Britain's Surprise

Britain's accomplishment in achieving a trade surplus in August, for the first monthly surplus in five years, is comparable to an alcoholic going without a drink for the first month in a comparable period. One month's performance carries no guarantees for the future, but it is worth observing all the same.

The dark stain of scandal has been scrubbed from the White House steps before. The lonely intellectual, Thomas Jefferson, died without denying that his slave, Sally Hemings, had been his mistress and that he had fathered several of her children. He would not deign to deny. The tall, stately redhead had written the Declaration of Independence at the age of 33. There was no mountain of knowledge or philosophy he had not climbed. When he entered the White House in 1800, his calm brow was above intrigue. Jefferson's mistake may have been that he read one book too many. It was "The Political Progress of Britain," by James Callender. The President was delighted to find that Mr. Callender, an immigrant American, looked upon British statesmen as ruffians, swin-

Britain possesses one of the most troublesome economies in Europe. It has been showing symptoms of illness for so long, few expect any dramatic revival. That is what made the August trade surplus so surprising and welcome. A 12 per cent drop in import between July and August was the major factor contributing to the surplus. Therein lies the secret to future trade balances. Britain still is suffering from one of the higher rates of inflation in Europe. Her exports are not going to show much improvement until prices are contained. In the interim, duplicating August's trade performance will depend upon holding back on imports.

Stain Of Scandal

By JIM BISHOP

Thomas Jefferson saw Callender as a "man of genius - in his coarse way." The statesman met the muckraker in Philadelphia and introduced him to publishers. Callender's first American book "exposed" Alexander Hamilton, Secretary of the Treasury, as a man involved in corrupt practices, one who reveled in an illicit affair with Mrs. James Reynolds. The third President of the United States read it on his vast estate at Monticello, Virginia. He was surprised that Hamilton admitted the "affair," but denied stealing. Jefferson felt no warning shudder. The third book called George Washington "a scandalous hypocrite," one who had "authorized the robbery and ruin of his own army." When Jefferson became president, his deficient in preparing youngsters for the labor market, and which continues to turn out teachers who can never hope to find teaching jobs. In the stock market we have indexing, too, although of another sort. It's the current cult. Instead of trying to beat the popular averages and indexes, an institutional portfolio manager seeks only to keep pace with them. This is now considered success, and a fee is charged for it.

Does indexing explain why the stock market, at least as indicated by the popular market averages, has been going nowhere? It would seem so. In the past, at any rate, the stock market rose or fell on taking rather than avoiding risk. No basic industry has been on a more persistent treadmill than steel, unless it is railroads. In fact, as steelmen tell it, they have had their feet planted on different treadmills going in opposite directions. They are being forced to expend hundreds of millions of dollars on pollution control. The have been asked to compete with steel imports subsidized by foreign governments. Simultaneously they have been pressured by the federal government to limit price increases they say are needed to modernize and make their plants more competitive. Unable to do so, they lay off workers. Stigmatized, they are less able to raise money in the stock market in order to update their plants. The examples are endless, though admittedly not all are clearcut. Some critics of steel, for example, maintain the industry has management deficiencies. And it has never been declared by the highest authority that all problems could or should be met in ways that satisfy all parties.

While admiring this, we also wonder why it is that inflation persists, when it is all but obvious that to some degree we are perpetuating the catchup sequence, in which higher incomes contribute to higher prices and . . .

An attempt is made to improve the lot of the worker lowest on the scale of skills by raising the minimum wage from $2.30 to $2.65 an hour, with further increases to come. It is bound to reduce the difficulties of some workers.

But for how long? Personnel executives already are saying they will have to raise the wages of more skilled workers in order to maintain the relationship. That tends to inflation, which is devastating for those on the bottom rung.

At the same time as we are considering increases in the minimum wage, we also are attempting to cut down on the jobless rate, which remains stuck in the area of 7 per cent of the civilian labor force.

It is almost unnecessary to point out that unemployment is worst among those who have the least skills, and who are thus in the minimum wage category. Does a higher minimum wage improve their chances for being hired?

Again, as we moralize over the unemployment problem we support a school system that is demonstrably protege demanded to be appointed postmaster of Richmond, or he would "tell all." The friendship ended. Jefferson refused. In 1801, Callender got a job on a scandal sheet called "The Richmond Recorder: or Ladies' and Gentlemen's Miscellany." He wrote an article accusing the President of being involved with two or more women, one of whom was a slave, Sally Hemings. The writer had never been to Monticello, and had never met Miss Hemings, but he described her as "The African Venus." The President, he said, was not fit to be in the company of respectable citizens. No woman, white or black, was safe from Jefferson.

Virginia was stunned. The President refused to entertain questions about his conduct. No newspaper sent a reporter to the White House or to Monticello to prove or disprove the story.

Among the many slaves on the plantation, Sally was favored. When Jefferson was ambassador to France, he sent for his daughter Mary and ordered Sally to accompany the child.

Sally's mother was Betty Hemings. She was the property of Colonel Wayles of Virginia. Slaves testified that the colonel fathered many children - some said 14 - by Betty Hemings. Jefferson married the colonel's daughter Martha.

When the old man died, Thomas Jefferson inherited the colonel's slaves. If the Wayles story is true, Betty Hemings's children were half-brothers and half-sisters to Mrs. Jefferson.

Sally was one of the children. Scandal stains with an unseen brush. Jefferson's biographers - among them the noted Professor John C. Miller - concede that Jefferson never ordered Betty Hemings's children to work in the fields. All of them, including Sally, were household servants.

Whatever the President's consuming passion for Sally, or lack of it, he risked the presidency in 1804 by leaving the White House as frequently as possible to be with "my children and grandchildren." He brought some slaves to Washington on occasion, but never Sally.

Thomas Jefferson died silent in 1826. A half-century later, Madison Hemings told a story to a newspaper editor that his mother Sally had told him that he and all his brothers and sisters were the children of the President of the United States.

Madison was angry at the world. His skin was pale; in white neighborhoods he was called "colored"; in black neighborhoods he was shunned as an "almost" white man. Sally did not tell her son that she had children by another white man, Samuel Carr.

True? Untrue? Historians are unable to decide. The steps of the White House are snowy. Anyone who stops a moment to look will see dark veins in the marble . . .

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I know that the dandruff problem is not as important as a serious disease, but to me it's the bane of my existence. Have the professors learned anything more about this "social disease"? I'm sure there must be thousands of people who would like to know how to cure it.
Mr. N. McN., III.

Dear Mr. McN.:
It's true that dandruff doesn't have priority among diseases, but it certainly does deserve a closer inspection by scientists if the annoyance and embarrassment created by the condition is to be modified.

Many people accept the fact that they have dandruff without first inquiring as to whether or not there is some underlying skin condition.

There are two scalp conditions which mimic simple dandruff. Atopic dermatitis and seborrheic dermatitis must first be considered as possible causes of the so-called dandruff.

Should one of these be found to be the cause, the soaps, the detergents and the "dandruff shampoos" may actually make such conditions worse.

Evaluation by a dermatologist can now establish the diagnosis of true dandruff. Once this is done, specific types of medicated and non-medicated soap, used in a fixed regime of shampooing, may bring the best results.

Lance Still Hero To Home Town Folks

CALHOUN, Ga. (AP) - At 5 p.m. Wednesday the sign on the road to Bert Lance's home town said, "Support Bert. Call the White House."

An hour later, after President Carter had announced the budget director's resignation, the sign said, "Welcome Home, Bert Lance."

outed from his top federal job, the former $90-a-week bank teller who became a millionaire and top adviser to the President was still a hero to the local folks.

This northeast Georgia town saw its most famous son resign a week to the day after 1,500 friends and neighbors held an emotional rally to cheer and pray and weep for him as he prepared to go before a Senate committee questioning his fiscal integrity.

But they were sad, quiet and bitter Wednesday as they waited and watched Carter's somber announcement of Lance's resignation from the Office of Management and Budget.

"He's a good ol' boy," said Luther Begley, clerk of the county court and a solid Lance supporter. "I really enjoyed it when they got the Republicans during Watergate, but I don't like this at all."

When Carter read Lance's letter of resignation at a nationally televised news conference, his voice stumbled as he read, "I have decided to submit my resignation as director of OMB."

Jack Mullins stood behind the

during the week. When Saturday morning comes, the house is transferred into a gymnasium. He runs, jumps, skips rope, does pushups, plays basketball with the kids and by the end of the day he's in a state of complete exhaustion. Sunday he does the same thing. I don't think this makes any sense. Do you?
Mrs. G.B., Tex.

Dear Mrs. B.:
Sudden bursts of exercise are really not as beneficial as they seem. People who live quiet, sedentary lives during the week, at work and at home, must not try to make up for the week of stagnation with uncontrolled, rigorous exercise.

The added pressure of overenthusiastic exercising can do more harm than good. It is now recognized that some form of exercise is extremely good for everyone. But trying to crowd too much activity into a weekend puts too much pressure on the heart and the vascular system.

A few minutes of jogging or riding an indoor bicycle or doing pushups can, on a daily basis, maintain the physical reserve. Then, the added exercise over the weekend will not be as exhausting as it now is. And, even over the weekend, exercise should not be forced to a point of great fatigue.

counter of his pharmacy and swore softly. He claimed Washington liberals attacked Lance because they opposed his plan to cut the federal bureaucracy.

"He's the only fiscal conservative up there," said Mullins, speculating that Northern antipathy toward Southerners fueled much of the opposition to Lance.

"I feel real, real bad," said the Rev. Bob Maddox, a Baptist minister. "Bert has spoken in all the churches as a lay speaker. If he met you, he never forgot your name. If your name was in the paper, you always got a note from him. Bert was a real personable guy."

"It's a horrible mistake," said Harbin King, probate judge of Gordon County and one of a handful of local civic leaders who gathered in front of a television set in the Chamber of Commerce office to watch Carter's news conference.

"At one time, the inner circle wanted to keep this a small rural community," King said. "But when Bert got in charge, he said, 'We want industry.' Bert Lance has built this community."

Lance is credited with luring business by changing the lending policies of the Calhoun First National Bank and building the bank's assets from $6 million in 1958 to $56 million by 1974.

A Page Of Opinion

Britain's Surprise

Britain's accomplishment in achieving a trade surplus in August, for the first monthly surplus in five years, is comparable to an alcoholic going without a drink for the first month in a comparable period. One month's performance carries no guarantees for the future, but it is worth observing all the same.

Britain possesses one of the most troublesome economies in Europe. It has been showing symptoms of illness for so long, few expect any dramatic revival. That is what made the August trade surplus so surprising and welcome.

A 12 per cent drop in import between July and August was the major factor contributing to the surplus. Therein lies the secret to future trade balances.

Britain still is suffering from one of the higher rates of inflation in Europe. Her exports are not going to show much improvement until prices are contained. In the interim, duplicating August's trade performance will depend upon holding back on imports.

Stain Of Scandal

By JIM BISHOP

The dark stain of scandal has been scrubbed from the White House steps before. The lonely intellectual, Thomas Jefferson, died without denying that his slave, Sally Hemings, had been his mistress and that he had fathered several of her children.

He would not deny to deny. The tall, stately redhead had written the Declaration of Independence at the age of 33. There was no mountain of knowledge or philosophy he had not climbed. When he entered the White House in 1800, his calm brow was above intrigue.

Jefferson's mistake may have been that he read one book too many. It was "The Political Progress of Britain," by James Callender. The President was delighted to find that Mr. Callender, an immigrant American, looked upon British statesmen as ruffians, swindlers, murderers and mercenaries.

Thomas Jefferson saw Callender as a "man of genius - in his coarse way." The statesman met the muckraker in Philadelphia and introduced him to publishers. Callender's first American book "exposed" Alexander Hamilton, Secretary of the Treasury, as a man involved in corrupt practices, one who reveled in an illicit affair with Mrs. James Reynolds.

The third President of the United States read it on his vast estate at Monticello, Virginia. He was surprised that Hamilton admitted the "affair," but denied stealing. Jefferson felt no warning shudder.

The third book called George Washington "a scandalous hypocrite," one who had "authorized the robbery and ruin of his own army." When Jefferson became president, his protege demanded to be appointed postmaster of Richmond, or he would "tell all." The friendship ended.

Jefferson refused. In 1801, Callender got a job on a scandal sheet called "The Richmond Recorder: or Lady's and Gentlemen's Miscellany." He wrote an article accusing the President of being involved with two or more women, one of whom was a slave, Sally Hemings. The writer had never been to Monticello, and had never met Miss Hemings, but he described her as "The African Venus." The President, he said, was not fit to be in the company of respectable citizens. No woman, white or black, was safe from Jefferson.

Virginia was stunned. The President refused to entertain questions about his conduct. No newspaper sent a reporter to the White House or to Monticello to prove or disprove the story.

Among the many slaves on the plantation, Sally was favored. When Jefferson was ambassador to France, he sent for his daughter Mary and ordered Sally to accompany the child.

Sally's mother was Betty Hemings. She was the property of Colonel Wayles of Virginia. Slaves testified that the colonel fathered many children - some said 14 - by Betty Hemings. Jefferson married the colonel's daughter Martha.

When the old man died, Thomas Jefferson inherited the colonel's slaves. If the Wayles story is true, Betty Hemings's children were half-brothers and half-sisters to Mrs. Jefferson.

Sally was one of the children. Scandal stains with an unseen brush. Jefferson's biographers - among them the noted Professor John C. Miller - concede that Jefferson never ordered Betty Hemings's children to work in the fields. All of them, including Sally, were household servants.

It is almost unnecessary to point out that unemployment is worst among those who have the least skills, and who are thus in the minimum wage category. Does a higher minimum wage improve their chances for being hired?

Again, as we moralize over the unemployment problem we support a school system that is demonstrably deficient in preparing youngsters for the labor market, and which continues to turn out teachers who can never hope to find teaching jobs.

In the stock market we have indexing, too, although of another sort. It's the current cult. Instead of trying to beat the popular averages and indexes, an institutional portfolio manager seeks only to keep pace with them. This is now considered success, and a fee is charged for it.

Does indexing explain why the stock market, at least as indicated by the popular market averages, has been going nowhere? It would seem so. In the past, at any rate, the stock market rose or fell on taking rather than avoiding risk.

No basic industry has been on a more persistent treadmill than steel, unless it is railroads. In fact, as steelmen tell it, they have had their feet planted on different treadmills going in opposite directions.

They are being forced to expend hundreds of millions of dollars on pollution control. The have been asked to compete with steel imports subsidized by foreign governments.

Simultaneously they have been pressured by the federal government to limit price increases they say are needed to modernize and make their plants more competitive. Unable to do so, they lay off workers. Stigmatized, they are less able to raise money in the stock market in order to update their plants.

The examples are endless, though admittedly not all are clearcut. Some critics of steel, for example, maintain the industry has management deficiencies. And it has never been declared by the highest authority that all problems could or should be met in ways that satisfy all parties.

NEW YORK (AP) — An old book called "Second Enoch," once disregarded as a late fabrication but now considered current in Judaism in the days of Jesus, says, "in the great time to come are many rooms prepared."

The words resemble Jesus' comment in John 14:2: "In my Father's house are many rooms ... I go to prepare a place for you."

This and other similarities to Jesus' teaching in numerous old manuscripts indicate the cross-pollinating ideas at work in his time, now that new evidence has caused the formerly ignored writings to be redated in the period of his ministry.

"They're opening a whole new perspective on first-century Judaism in the days of Jesus," says the Rev. Dr. James H. Charlesworth, director of Duke University's International Center for the Study of Christian Origins.

"They bring out the influences around him as much richer and more varied than was known before and also his great genius in dealing with the intellectual ferment and tendencies of the times."

The treasure-trove of newly authenticated material, swelled by recently turned-up finds and including previously discounted books of the so-called "pseudepigrapha," is being translated into English by an international team of scholars for their first full publication.

Through the documents, "we now know that in the time of Christian origins, we can't clearly determine just what literature is distinctly Jewish and what also is Christian," says Dr. Charlesworth, editor for the project being carried out by Duke's Pseudepigrapha Institute.

"They're all Jewish documents," he adds, "yet many also include specifically Christian concepts. It shows us just how very, very Jewish Christianity was in its beginnings."

Thus far, the project has accumulated 47 books classified as originally composed in the interval between 167 B. C. and 135 A. D. They're to be published by Doubleday & Co. about 1980. An earlier collection published in 1913 included only 17 books, but the list has nearly tripled through additional manuscripts turned up in archives in Europe and Asia and linked to the period 2,000 years ago.

Manuscripts of the pseudepigrapha previously were regarded of late or medieval origin, but fragments of some of them found in the Dead Sea Scrolls, the library of a first-century Jewish group, among other clues, has brought the redating.

"The documents cumulatively bridge the chasm of over 200 years that separate the two sacred testaments," Dr. Charlesworth says. "They come from Jesus' time, providing an invaluable link with his milieu."

Most of the books are named in honor of Old Testament characters, such as Enoch or Ahikar, the apocalypses of Adam, Elijah, Ezra and Sedrach, the Ladder of Jacob, testaments of Abraham, Jacob and Job, the treatise of Shem.

He says the pseudepigrapha documents "help us to understand Jesus in ways that might have been enlightening even for Peter," the chief of the apostles.

Issue 1 Spawns Rival Campaign Committees

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Issue 1 on the November ballot, which would repeal Ohio's new election day registration law, has spawned rival campaign committees with All-American names, designed for sure-fire voter appeal.

Ohioans for the Preservation of Honest Elections wants specifically to preserve in Ohio procedures that require voters to register before an election — 30 days before, to be exact.

If everyone is for honest elections, no doubt a majority would also agree with the implied purpose of Citizens to Save the Right to Vote.

In this case the right to be saved is a new law permitting Ohioans to register at polling places on the day of election. Registration would also be permanent, under this new Democratic-sponsored law, even if the enrolled voter went any number of years without exercising his franchise.

OPHE thinks you should vote at least once every four years or be dropped from the rolls. Issue 1 would make that requirement the law, as well as 30-day-in-advance registration deadline.

Both groups claims bipartisan membership, but in fact partisan interests are clearly at stake.

OPHE is headed by Arthur Peterson, chairman of the politics and government department at Ohio Wesleyan University, and a self-described moderate-conservative Republican.

He is chairman of an organization founded by local election board officials, including some Democrats. OPHE has thus far been unable to produce any "name" Democrats.

Nor has "the right to vote" committee presented any prominent Republicans for the anti-repeal effort.

"Among significant organizations urging a 'no' vote are the League of Women Voters, the Urban League, the Ohio Education Association, the Ohio AFL-CIO, the UAW, the Ohio Council of Senior Citizens and the NAACP," said Regina O'Leary, a member of the League of Women Voters, who chairs the coalition.

Among those favoring a "yes" vote to repeal the law, are Gov. James A. Rhodes and Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, Ohio's chief election officer. Both are Republicans.

In addition to oft-repeated claims that the law will lead to fraud, Republicans also know it will probably lead to a bigger turnout of lower income voters, traditionally sympathetic to Democratic candidates.

You can't blame a fellow for trying. House Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, who is actively seeking the Republican gubernatorial nomination, challenged Vice President Walter Mondale to debate the issue of election day registration.

Not very many people expected a debate between a vice president and a state lawmaker to ever materialize and when Mondale visited Ohio to stump for the election day registration concept he failed to acknowledge Kurfess's challenge.

Kurfess, an opponent of the law, was properly outraged.

"We trust Ohio voters will see through the vice president's unwillingness to debate a controversial issue and through what is expected to be the attempt of powerful special interests to spend this Ohio ballot question into defeat," he said.

Former Gov. John J. Gilligan reveals being asked what he knew about foreign policy when his appointment, by President Carter as director of the Agency for International Development was announced.

He said he replied that every Ohioan is taught from the "cradle to the grave that foreign policy is very simply; beat Michigan."

Old Writings Open Up Insight Into First-Century Judaism

NEW YORK (AP) — An old book called "Second Enoch," once disregarded as a late fabrication but now considered current in Judaism in the days of Jesus, says, "in the great time to come are many rooms prepared."

The words resemble Jesus' comment in John 14:2: "In my Father's house are many rooms ... I go to prepare a place for you."

This and other similarities to Jesus' teaching in numerous old manuscripts indicate the cross-pollinating ideas at work in his time, now that new evidence has caused the formerly ignored writings to be redated in the period of his ministry.

"They're opening a whole new perspective on first-century Judaism in the days of Jesus," says the Rev. Dr. James H. Charlesworth, director of Duke University's International Center for the Study of Christian Origins.

"They bring out the influences around him as much richer and more varied than was known before and also his great genius in dealing with the intellectual ferment and tendencies of the times."

The treasure-trove of newly authenticated material, swelled by recently turned-up finds and including previously discounted books of the so-called "pseudepigrapha," is being translated into English by an international team of scholars for their first full publication.

SERTOMA SPEAKER — Program chairman Steve Helweg introduced Dr. James Flood (center) at last Tuesday's meeting of the Pickaway Plains Sertoma Club. Dr. Flood, a Westerville Sertoman, is the director of Deaf Relations at Central College in Westerville. He has been deaf since the age of 12 and spoke to members about his life of complete silence. Dr. Flood communicates through speaking and using sign language. As he finished, he introduced Gary Brown (right) who is working with deaf people at Central College. Brown is the fund-raising chairman for the Columbus Colony project. Columbus Colony is to be a community for deaf people to live and learn how to get along without the sense of hearing. The ground breaking for the colony will be in the near future and will include a 100-bed nursing home and 106-apartment units.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Law Says Divorce Must Be Published

DEAR ABBY: You've often heard the line, "I never thought I'd be writing to Dear Abby," but this time, you were so off base, I had to write.

You told MINNESOTAN if she requested that the news of her divorce be withheld from publication, the editor would probably respect her wishes.

Baloney! I don't know about Minnesota, but in Iowa divorces are published by law.

We sometimes publish divorces as news-not on our front page, but usually listed with other court house records-whether or not we're requested to keep it confidential.

Some newspapers in this area publish entire court proceedings on the front page-"blow by blow", so to speak.

Please don't go telling your readers they may edit their local newspapers. With your background, you should know better.

RUSSELL S. OECHSLIN, EDITOR-PUBLISHER

INDEPENDENCE, IA.

DEAR EDITOR-PUBLISHER: (I should have, but I didn't. An editor who shall remain nameless, lest he becomes jobless, gave me a bum steer. Thanks for setting the record straight. I needed that.

DEAR ABBY: I play softball, and not to brag, but I'm considered a pretty good player.

There's a girl I sort of hang around with. I'm not really all that involved with her, but she's been coming around to watch me play quite a lot lately, and that's my problem.

Last season I didn't mind her watching me play, and I played okay, but this season, for some dumb reason, every time I see her I get nervous and I play lousy. Maybe I'd play lousy, anyway, but when I see her there, I play extra lousy.

How can I get her not to come around when I'm playing without getting her mad at me? She's a neat kid and I don't want to hurt her feelings.

SOFTBALL SOFTY

DEAR SOFTY: Level with her. Tell her you want to find out for sure if you're playing lousy because she's there. She might be flattered to learn that you think her presence is affecting your game.

DEAR ABBY: I am 25 and female. Last year I bought a watch, which I treasured. It cost $145-a lot of money for me. I had to save a long time to buy it.

I wore it one day with a fellow I was sort of going with. He makes good money and has a government job. We went for a drive and decided to wade out into a stream so I took my watch off and he locked it in the glove compartment of his car.

After he took me home and drove off (he lives 200 miles away) I realized my watch was in his car. I called him that very night and asked him to please put my watch in a safe place until we met again.

Well, every time we met after that he said he "forgot" my watch. It's been a year now and he says he doesn't know what happened to it, and he's given up the search, so I had better get another one. It wasn't insured and he never offered to replace it. My feelings toward him are ambivalent. I don't especially want to see him, but this watch business has upset me. If you were in my place, what would you do?

"E"

DEAR "E": I'd buy myself another watch, but I wouldn't give the fellow who "lost" it the time of day.

Veterans Questions Answered

EDITOR'S NOTE: Each week the Circleville Herald will publish a series of questions and answers in interest to veterans. These questions and answers are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. Any veteran desiring further information concerning his Veterans Administration Benefits should contact the Veterans Service Officer at 219 South Court Street.

(Q.) How does the Viet Nam Bonus for the State of Ohio work? I entered the service in 1970 from the State of Kentucky, but since then have moved to the state of Ohio. Am I eligible?

(A.) No. The Ohio Viet Nam Bonus pays a maximum of $500 cash bonus or $1,000 educational assistance bonus to all eligible veterans of the Viet Nam era, or a similar cash bonus to the next of kin of deceased veterans. In addition, the next of kin of veterans classified as MIA or KIA are entitled to a $1,000 cash bonus. The bonus is paid to living veterans, at the rate of $10.00 per month for stateside service, $15.00 per month for foreign service, and $20.00 per month for time served in Vietnam. To be eligible, a veteran must have served honorably in the republic of Vietnam from Feb. 28, 1961 to July 1, 1973 and or served in the armed forces in any type of service (domestic, foreign, or Vietnam) from Aug. 5, 1964 to July 1, 1973, and whose domicile was the State of Ohio for one full year prior to entry to active service. The deadline date for filing for the Bonus is Dec. 31, 1977.

(Q.) How long does a veteran have to use his educational benefits?

(A.) Ten (10) years after the date of his discharge, (separation from active service.)

(Q.) If a veteran dies of a service-connected disability, will the VA cover the cost of his children's education?

(A.) Yes. For a period of 45 months which is reduced the same as the educational assistance for a veteran. (Q.) Can decorations, medals, or ribbons be supplied by the government if the original ones have been lost?

(A.) Yes. By writing the branch of the military that the veteran was in.

(Q.) Will the VA pay tutorial assistance in addition to monthly rate presently being received?

(A.) Yes. A single veteran who is a full time student will receive $292 for his education. If special tutoring is required, the VA will allow $65 a month for a period not to exceed twelve (12) months.

No Winners In Lance Affair

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the Bert Lance affair, there weren't any winners. Lance lost his job, President Carter lost credibility, and the Senate's investigators lost their way.

For a few days, it seemed that the fumbling efforts of investigating senators to nail Lance might, instead, spare him. The more they talked, the better he looked.

But the case had gone too far, the controversy wouldn't subside and Lance, maintaining that he had cleared his good name, took it off the letterhead of the Office of Management and Budget.

Carter said it was all done voluntarily, but couldn't deny that if his friend and budget director had not reached that decision, he might have had to suggest — or request — the resignation.

For it was costing the White House too much. Carter acknowledged that his own credibility had suffered, although he insisted that the high ethical standards he had set for his administration were not bent for a friend in the Lance case.

Nonetheless, the controversy was stirring doubts which Carter acknowledged were damaging.

That problem was underscored by an Associated Press public opinion poll conducted Monday evening. That nationwide survey of 1,548 adults, conducted by Chilton Research Services of Radnor, Pa., showed that among some Americans, confidence in Carter was shaken.

About 26 per cent of those interviewed said they had less confidence than before in Carter's pledge to demand high moral conduct in government. About 22 per cent said Carter's handling of the Lance case had lowered their opinion of his performance as President.

In both cases, substantial majorities said their opinions on Carter had not been affected. Nonetheless, some erosion was evident.

The resignation Carter accepted, and praised, even as he defended his friend and aide at Wednesday's news conference, should put an end to that problem.

It headed off the likelihood of some others.

The pressure for resignation came in part from the top members of the Governmental Affairs Committee, which conducted the Lance hearings. The panel is in a key position on one of Carter's major undertakings, the reorganization of government.

The President's reorganization proposals will have to gain the approval of that panel, and had he remained as budget chief, Lance would have been the chief spokesman in seeking it. That would hardly have been a comfortable situation, for all the well-photographed handshakes with which Lance ended his defense.

By insisting from beginning to end that there was no case at all to be made against the budget director, Carter and Lance made their defense effort more difficult.

For in arguing that there wasn't even an appearance of impropriety, Carter magnified the errors and flaws on the ledger of the man he was trying to rescue from controversy.

On Losing Side

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Sens. John Glenn and Howard Metzenbaum, both Democrats, voted with the losing side Thursday when the Senate turned down a move to scrap an industry supported plan to deregulate new natural gas prices.

Former OMB Director Unsympathetic To Lance

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland businessman Roy L. Ash reacted unsympathetically to the news of Bert Lance's resignation from Ash's old job.

Ash, chairman and chief executive officer of Addressograph-Multigraph Corp., was director of the Office of Management and Budget under former President Richard Nixon from 1972 to 1974.

Ash said he did not think Lance's personal finances were more closely scrutinized than those of his predecessors. Ash said he spent half a day under relentless questioning by the joint economic committee of Congress before he became budget chief.

"They asked me just as tough questions as they asked him, and they asked personal questions, too. But fortunately, I had some different answers."

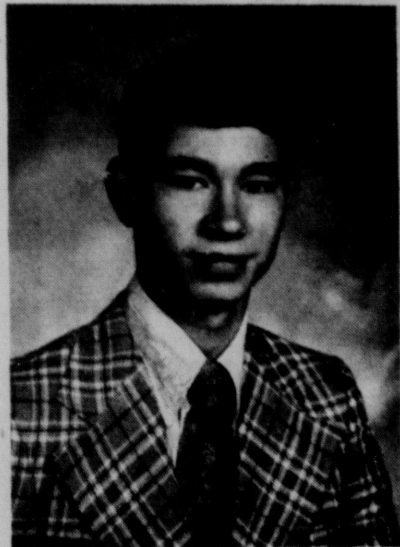

Ash said before he took over the office he sold all the stock he owned and handed over the cash to a trustee. Lance did not sell a large block of stock in the National Bank of Georgia when he took office.

"I had a real blind trust. His was only one-eyed," Ash said.

The former budget director said, however, the nation should not dwell on the resignation and the events surrounding it.

"Let's not have a post mortem on the whole situation. For better or worse, right or wrong, let's go ahead and turn our attention to the man who will succeed Lance," Ash said.

Glenn, Carney Urges Appeal On Court Ruling

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, and Rep. Charles J. Carney, D-Ohio, urged Atty. Gen. Griffin Bell Thursday to appeal a court ruling that they said affects the economic future of the Mahoning River Valley in northeastern Ohio.

A federal appellate court in Philadelphia last week overturned an Environmental Protection Agency order exempting eight Mahoning Valley steelmakers from federal clean water standards because of the grave economic impact it would have there.

Youngstown Steel & Tube Co., in suspending some operations and laying off 5,000 workers, indicated that environmental concerns influenced its decision.

What is the story behind this "For Sale" sign? Is it just a house that's for sale, or is this a tale of happiness or sorrow — of success or defeat?

Let's hope this story has a happy ending! But this isn't a world of make-believe we live in. God made us human beings, not puppets. He has given us minds and bodies, nerves and muscles — and weakness as well as strength.

Maybe the story behind this house is a happy one. Maybe it's a sad one. Regardless, the people who lived here, like all of us, will be able to accept both good fortune and bad if there is yet another house in their lives.

The House of the Lord, the Church, has been built to endure through the ages. Here we will always have a home — during our lives on earth as well as throughout eternity.

What is the story behind this "For Sale" sign? Is it just a house that's for sale, or is this a tale of happiness or sorrow — of success or defeat?

Let's hope this story has a happy ending! But this isn't a world of make-believe we live in. God made us human beings, not puppets. He has given us minds and bodies, nerves and muscles — and weakness as well as strength.

Maybe the story behind this house is a happy one. Maybe it's a sad one. Regardless, the people who lived here, like all of us, will be able to accept both good fortune and bad if there is yet another house in their lives.

The House of the Lord, the Church, has been built to endure through the ages. Here we will always have a home — during our lives on earth as well as throughout eternity.

Nearly 6,000 Steelworkers In Ohio To Be Without Jobs

By The Associated Press

Nearly 6,000 Ohio steelworkers will be without jobs as a result of layoffs announced this week by producers reeling from foreign competition.

Gov. James A. Rhodes was to meet today with Middletown, Ohio, labor and government officials to discuss the industry's worsening outlook in the state, while an Ohio congressman was preparing for a similar meeting with President Carter next week.

Termination of 600 workers at Armco Steel Corp.'s plants in Middletown and New Miami in southwestern Ohio on Thursday — an 8 per cent reduction of the work force — was an effort to survive in a market flooded with inexpensive, high quality foreign steel, the firm said.

Release of 5,000 workers was announced earlier this week at Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co., while smaller reductions affected Republic Steel Corp., in Cleveland and Jones & Laughlin in Niles, Ohio.

About 176,000 Ohioans are employed as steelworkers, with about 100,000 other in supportive industries. Similarly burdened by rising pollution control and labor costs, the state's major producer, U.S. Steel, said it is studying consolidation of its northeast Ohio operations to substantially reduce its work force. And in a move attributed to a lack of orders, the steel giant on Thursday announced 200 layoffs among its 5,300 Youngstown workers.

"Any time we lay off employees, rumors begin that we are moving," a U.S. Steel spokesman said. "However, when you have more than 5,000 employees in a plant, you are continually laying off from 100 to 200 persons, but within a week or two they are all rehired. It depends on our orders," he said.

Rhodes, who conferred with Youngstown officials Wednesday, reacted to the cutbacks by urging Carter to restrict foreign steel imports, since about one-fifth of the steel used in the U.S. is produced abroad. The governor said the other 15 steel-producing states face the same future as Ohio unless import quotas are established.

Rhodes said he is drafting legislation to benefit cities whose finances are devastated by such layoffs. Specifically, the governor said he is trying to establish an emergency fund to help communities match federal Economic Development Administration grants for public facilities, services, schools, rent and mortgage assistance and even relocation of families.

"I think we can get an agreement on this," said Sen. Harry Mesel, D-33 Youngstown, who has discussed the proposed legislation with Rhodes. Mesel said the emergency funding would be limited strictly to communities in dire economic straits.

Only one Mahoning Valley community affected by the Sheet and Tube layoffs has calculated the effect on the city purse. Campbell, population 12,500, predicted loss of more than $1 million per year in taxes.

Meanwhile, the Ohio Senate and House approved resolutions Thursday asking Congress to evaluate enforcement provisions of the Trade Act of 1974 to determine if the law could provide further protection of the domestic steel market.

Rep. Charles Carney, D-Ohio, newly-elected chairman of the congressional Steel Caucus, said he will meet with Carter at an undetermined time next week to talk about the steel industry layoffs.

Pumkin Show is almost with us and we have received several inquiries about flying in for the occasion. We have been assured by John Leist, of the React and Rescue group, that they will have transportation available for pilots who fly-in and want to visit the show. Last year they made several trips down here to pick up visitors and they have my deepest appreciation.

We had a first solo and a new private pilot this week. Chuck Steinhauer soloed and John Myers passed his FAA flight check and received his license. Congratulations to both of these fine pilots.

Each step in learning to fly brings it's own set of jitters. The first time your instructor gets out of the plane and leaves you there all by yourself, then tells you to take it up and bring it back, the shakes take over. When you go on your first solo cross-country, you're sure you'll never find that airport.

But when the FFA Inspector gets in the seat beside you for your flight check, your insides turn to jelly and you wonder why you ever took up this infernal business in the first place. Then if you have done a slip, stall, slow-flight and all other good things half way decent, he hands you a slip of paper that says you are no longer just a flyer, but are now an honest-to-plane pilot, your head is literally in the clouds.

The Civil Air Patrol plane has been on several search missions looking for the plane from Lancaster. All of southern Ohio has been covered and now they are working farther south. Each plane goes with a pilot and an observer and covers a preassigned sector. They have already searched 3,000 to 5,000 square miles, having covered several sectors twice.

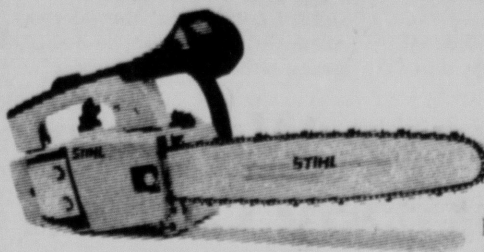

When Penny Dietrich wins her airplane, look out! She has promised me that she'll learn to fly.

Senate Unanimously Passes Alcoholism-Insurance Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State lawmakers closed out the first week of an abbreviated autumn session with unanimous agreement on a bill requiring insurance coverage for treatment of alcoholism. But there was sharp partisan dissent on a second measure to strip some state employees of Civil Service protection.

In committee, the opening round of a House-Senate conference to find a compromise on legislation establishing collective bargaining rights for 500,000 public employees produced little movement.

A second joint committee meeting was set for Tuesday, though majority Democratic leaders now doubt that agreement can be reached before adjournment later next week. That means final action on the Democrats' top priority, the bargaining bill, would be put off until mid-October at the earliest.

The alcoholism bill drew 33-0 Senate backing after an emotional speech by sponsor Jerome Stano, D-24 Parma, who described the problem as the "third most common disease in this country."

His bill, sent on to the House, requires commercial group insurance policies to provide coverage for inpatient, outpatient and residential care of alcoholism.

It requires group health care providers, that offer coverage for mental or emotional disorders, to include at least minimum out-patient benefits for such disorders.

"The misery of mental illness and alcoholism is just as tormenting, painful, destructive, costly and treatable as any physical illness and should be recognized as such in insurance policies," Stano said.

"The professionals in the field tell us that out-patient treatment is far more effective," the Cuyahoga County lawmaker added. "The insurance companies have not adjusted to this more humane, less costly approach."

Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-15 Columbus, had a more difficult time selling a House-approved bill that would take Civil Service status away from examiners and their supervisors in the office of State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson, a Democrat.

"This bill is not for the purpose of firing people, it is a bill to permit the hiring of the best personnel that can be had," O'Shaughnessy argued.

No one currently classified in the auditor's office would be affected by the legislation, he said, but about 150 probationary employees would be vulnerable.

About 700 positions — examiners, higher ranking "state examiners" and supervisors for both categories — would eventually be declassified, a spokesman for Ferguson said. Examiners carry out audits of state agencies and local government units.

Minority Whip Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, charged that the bill was a device to force Ferguson's employees to contribute 2 per cent of their monthly wages to a political "flower fund." Ferguson maintains a "voluntary" political contribution policy among office workers, his spokesman said.

The legislation was sent to Gov. James A. Rhodes after 21-12 approval, with only two Senators crossing party lines on the roll call.

Mother Reunited With Kidnaped Baby

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP) — An escapee from the Indiana Girls School was arrested late Thursday night in connection with the alleged abduction of an infant baby who was found in an alley here Monday.

The arrest came several hours after the baby, Shawn Michael Gibson, was reunited with his mother, Mrs. Cathy Gibson of Crittenden, Ky.

A police public information officer said the girl, 16, was arrested at 10:30 by police and the FBI. She was charged only with being an escapee from the girls school. Her name was not disclosed because of her age, the spokesman said.

"I feel like I'm having him all over again," cried Mrs. Gibson while cradling the blond-haired baby at the police station. "I'm scared to death. It feels so good."

Mrs. Gibson, 23, and Shawn had to remain overnight in Hammond because the FBI and local welfare authorities wanted more information about the baby's disappearance Sunday night.

An FBI official said Shawn apparently was a kidnap victim, but not for ransom. The girl taken into custody, said by police to have been the Crittenden's babysitter, allegedly took the child by bus from Kentucky on the 275-mile trip to northwest Indiana and abandoned the boy.

A Hammond man, Jim Hall, found Shawn in the alley behind his house. The baby was in good health at the time.

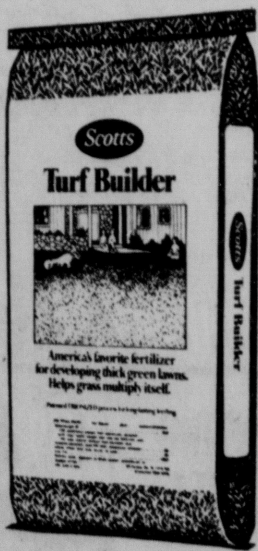

The baby was identified when his grandmother saw his picture in the Vincennes, Ind., Sun-Commercial. Kentucky state troopers took Mrs. Gibson to Hammond on Wednesday, but she had to wait until Thursday for the reunion because of the police investigation.

The sun is gaseous throughout, even in its center.

The first time your instructor gets out of the plane and leaves you there all by yourself, then tells you to take it up and bring it back, the shakes take over. When you go on your first solo cross-country, you're sure you'll never find that airport.

But when the FFA Inspector gets in the seat beside you for your flight check, your insides turn to jelly and you wonder why you ever took up this infernal business in the first place. Then if you have done a slip, stall, slow-flight and all other good things half way decent, he hands you a slip of paper that says you are no longer just a flyer, but are now an honest-to-plane pilot, your head is literally in the clouds.

The Civil Air Patrol plane has been on several search missions looking for the plane from Lancaster. All of southern Ohio has been covered and now they are working farther south. Each plane goes with a pilot and an observer and covers a preassigned sector. They have already searched 3,000 to 5,000 square miles, having covered several sectors twice.

When Penny Dietrich wins her airplane, look out! She has promised me that she'll learn to fly.

Senate Unanimously Passes Alcoholism-Insurance Bill

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State lawmakers closed out the first week of an abbreviated autumn session with unanimous agreement on a bill requiring insurance coverage for treatment of alcoholism. But there was sharp partisan dissent on a second measure to strip some state employees of Civil Service protection.

In committee, the opening round of a House-Senate conference to find a compromise on legislation establishing collective bargaining rights for 500,000 public employees produced little movement.

A second joint committee meeting was set for Tuesday, though majority Democratic leaders now doubt that agreement can be reached before adjournment later next week. That means final action on the Democrats' top priority, the bargaining bill, would be put off until mid-October at the earliest.

The alcoholism bill drew 33-0 Senate backing after an emotional speech by sponsor Jerome Stano, D-24 Parma, who described the problem as the "third most common disease in this country."

His bill, sent on to the House, requires commercial group insurance policies to provide coverage for in-patient, out-patient and residential care of alcoholism.

It requires group health care providers, that offer coverage for mental or emotional disorders, to include at least minimum out-patient benefits for such disorders.

"The misery of mental illness and alcoholism is just as tormenting, painful, destructive, costly and treatable as any physical illness and should be recognized as such in insurance policies," Stano said.

"The professionals in the field tell us that out-patient treatment is far more effective," the Cuyahoga County lawmaker added. "The insurance companies have not adjusted to this more humane, less costly approach."

Sen. Robert E. O'Shaughnessy, D-15 Columbus, had a more difficult time selling a House-approved bill that would take Civil Service status away from examiners and their supervisors in the office of State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson, a Democrat.

"This bill is not for the purpose of firing people, it is a bill to permit the hiring of the best personnel that can be had," O'Shaughnessy argued.

No one currently classified in the auditor's office would be affected by the legislation, he said, but about 150 probationary employees would be vulnerable.

About 700 positions — examiners, higher ranking "state examiners" and supervisors for both categories — would eventually be declassified, a spokesman for Ferguson said. Examiners carry out audits of state agencies and local government units.

Minority Whip Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, charged that the bill was a device to force Ferguson's employees to contribute 2 per cent of their monthly wages to a political "flower fund." Ferguson maintains a "voluntary" political contribution policy among office workers, his spokesman said.

The legislation was sent to Gov. James A. Rhodes after 21-12 approval, with only two Senators crossing party lines on the roll call.

Mother Reunited With Kidnaped Baby

HAMMOND, Ind. (AP) — An escapee from the Indiana Girls School was arrested late Thursday night in connection with the alleged abduction of an infant baby who was found in an alley here Monday.

The arrest came several hours after the baby, Shawn Michael Gibson, was reunited with his mother, Mrs. Cathy Gibson of Crittenden, Ky.

A police public information officer said the girl, 16, was arrested at 10:30 by police and the FBI. She was charged only with being an escapee from the girls school. Her name was not disclosed because of her age, the spokesman said.

"I feel like I'm having him all over again," cried Mrs. Gibson while cradling the blond-haired baby at the police station. "I'm scared to death. It feels so good."

Mrs. Gibson, 23, and Shawn had to remain overnight in Hammond because the FBI and local welfare authorities wanted more information about the baby's disappearance Sunday night.

An FBI official said Shawn apparently was a kidnap victim, but not for ransom. The girl taken into custody, said by police to have been the Crittenden's babysitter, allegedly took the child by bus from Kentucky on the 275-mile trip to northwest Indiana and abandoned the boy.

A Hammond man, Jim Hall, found Shawn in the alley behind his house. The baby was in good health at the time.

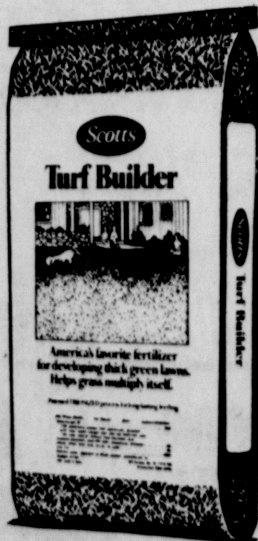

The baby was identified when his grandmother saw his picture in the Vincennes, Ind., Sun-Commercial. Kentucky state troopers took Mrs. Gibson to Hammond on Wednesday, but she had to wait until Thursday for the reunion because of the police investigation.

The sun is gaseous throughout, even in its center.

John Davidson Discusses Fire At Beverly Hills

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Singer John Davidson has said he was worried about the size of the crowd and lack of exits at the Beverly Hills Supper Club, where fire broke out as he was preparing to perform May 28. The blaze killed 164 people.

The Southgate, Ky., nightclub's Cabaret Room — where most of the dead were found — "was jammed in as tight as any showroom I know," Davidson told Kentucky State Police investigating the fire.

Their interview with Davidson was included in about 15,000 pages of documents gathered by the fire investigation team.

A copy was obtained by the Louisville Courier-Journal from the U.S. House subcommittee on consumer protection and finance in Washington, the Courier said in a copyrighted story today.

Davidson told police in the interview June 11 at his California home that he had been concerned because his dressing room had no exit. "It seemed to me there should always be an exit backstage," he said.

He was also concerned, he said, that the Cabaret Room, where he was to perform, "was overcrowded ... the setup of the room is that the people are jammed in as tight as any showroom I know."

Davidson left the building when warned of the fire by the drummer in his band. He said perhaps 30 or 40 people left the building through the same door before he did.

Davidson said he held the door open for a time, then moved away when smoke started coming out. "After I was out on the grass there were another 30 or 40 people that came out the door," he said.

He said black smoke and flames started coming out the doorway, the stream of people stopped and the door swung shut.

Vietnamese Woman Gains Custody Of Son

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — Two years after she fled her native Vietnam, Le Thi Sang has regained custody of her son from an American couple who fled the country with the boy shortly before the Communists took over the country.

Mrs. Le packed her 8-year-old son, Tuan, on a bus back to Ohio Thursday after a judge ruled against William and Elizabeth Knight, who had cared for the boy for two years.

"I love him and I feel that he likes and loves me," Mrs. Le testified during the custody hearing.

"It must be emphasized that we cannot under the law place the child with the Knights just because their home is better than Le Sang's," wrote San Joaquin Superior Court Judge Bill Dozier.

The judge said Mrs. Le is "a far cry from an unfit person" and had "devoted a life entirely to reclaiming" her son for the past 23 months. He noted that the boy has now said he wants to return to his mother.

Mrs. Le, a former waitress at an American military base in Saigon, gave the boy to the Knights in April 1975 as the Communists shelled government positions only miles away.

She had her son, whose American name is Dean, declared an orphan to smooth the way for his adoption by the Knights. But in the confusion of the final days of the war, the adoption was never completed.

When the court fight over Tuan's custody erupted last year, Tuan refused to speak Vietnamese or talk to his mother, according to her lawyer, Bill Kennedy.

"He kept saying, 'My ears cannot hear Vietnamese. It's a stupid language.' He tried to completely blot out his Vietnamese identity," Kennedy said.

Mrs. Le left her job as a maid in a motel near Toledo, Ohio to attend the court hearings.

William Knight, a former helicopter maintenance instructor in Vietnam, told the court at the time, "He's proud being an American boy." In an interview last February, Knight said, "I love that boy and he has never said one word about wanting to leave. If he had, he could leave."

But, in the course of a summer visit ordered by Dozier, Tuan began to eat Vietnamese food and talk to his mother and an aunt in Ohio, said Dozier.

"Through some magic elixir of patience, resilience and mother love, plus an inner need in the 8-year-old boy, the mother won the battle," the judge wrote.

"The psychologists for both sides said he was acting too much like an American — watching TV all the time, playing baseball and shooting pinball," Kennedy said. "They said he would be devastated when he finally confronted the fact that he was obviously Asian."

"Tuan is a street-smart little kid. He's something of an opportunist in his ability to adapt to any situation," said Dozier. "I think he'll be able to adapt to his mother."

The judge said the boy's father, Thomas Lavigne, married the mother in a Vietnamese ceremony when he was an American soldier in Vietnam.

Peter Simonelli, an attorney for the Knights, said he would recommend against an appeal.

Gerald Ford Visits Nebraska Cornhuskers

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Gerald R. Ford is not prone to take his achievements too seriously, the University of Nebraska's Cornhusker football team has learned.

Coach Tom Osborne said that when Ford visited with the team Thursday, his players seemed more interested in the fact that Ford was a former Michigan football center than in the fact that he was once president of the United States.

"Well, I'm a has-been in both areas," Ford quipped.

The former president said he was more at ease with the football players than he had been earlier in the day when he lectured to several classes at the university.

"I've said many times I feel more at home on the gridiron than I do in the academic atmosphere," he said.

Willie's Dillies

By A BENCHWARMER

Well, as much as I hate to admit it, I'm going to have to throw in the towel on this baseball season. My Reds were eliminated last week, and along with their elimination, the chances for Dave and I to pick up a steak dinner were also eliminated. I didn't mention our fellow Herald employees (with whom the bet was made) by name when announcement of the big bet was made back in early June, because I didn't want to embarrass them. I still won't mention them, for the same reason — (wouldn't you be embarrassed to admit you bet against the Reds for a measly steak?)

I just wonder if Bob Howsam knows what this has cost the two of us—I doubt if I could sleep at night if I were he, knowing that we have to buy these two jokers a steak.

Anyway, it is only a little over five months until the annual "rites of spring" start again in earnest, and for all you Dodgers out there on the west coast, the Reds will have a while to think all kinds of nasty things about you—then "wait 'till next year!"

The "fearless forecast" — the Tigers will leash the Bulldogs, the Braves will fizzle the Rockets, Westfall over Landmark Christian, and the Vikings will shoot down the Falcons. Also, I think the sooner the Sooners get to Columbus, the sooner they can leave, with a loss on their backs of course. In the pros, the Bengals over Seattle and the Browns will down the Patriots. One more prognostication—the Reds will win the National League west division next season. Anyone want to go for a steak dinner on it?

Until next time, have a nice day—be a good sport.

Blyleven's No-Hitter Sinks California

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

There was that awful moment when the Texas Rangers trainer walked to the mound in the eighth inning to talk to Bert Blyleven.

"I didn't know if I could throw, but even if I was going to throw underhand I wasn't going to leave," Blyleven said afterwards.

The curve-balling right-hander stayed in the game and hurled the third no-hitter of the major league season as the Rangers blanked the California Angels 6-0.

The no-hitter sparked a light American League schedule that saw the Baltimore Orioles tighten up the East Division title race while the Boston Red Sox slipped a little off the pace.

"It was like the world stopped when (Thad) Bosley swung at that last pitch," ending the game, Blyleven said.

Bosley, who entered the game batting .308 struck out in the first, seventh and ninth innings. Before his final-out whiff, Blyleven issued his only walk of the night to pinch-hitter Carlos May.

Only one other Angel batter reached base. Ron Jackson was safe on Bert Campaneris' error to lead off the third, but was wiped out in an inning-ending double play.

"I used the curve ball exclusively in the ninth inning," Blyleven said. "I threw about 60 per cent curve balls tonight. My leg doesn't bother me that much when I throw curves."

It was the first start in 16 days for the native of Zeist, Holland, who went to high school just five miles from the Angels' stadium in Anaheim, Calif. Blyleven has been bothered by a groin pull on his right side.

He reinjured the muscle pull while pitching to Mario Guerrero in the eighth, bringing out the Ranger trainer.

"I first realized about the nohitter in the second inning when I looked at the scoreboard and saw that (loser Paul) Hartzell and I both had one going and I thought it sure would be nice ... In the third and fourth, I concentrated more and the next thing I knew it was the eighth inning."

In other AL games, Detroit edged Boston 5-4, Baltimore trounced Toronto 7-1 and Chicago nipped Seattle 5-4.

Blyleven lives in nearby Mission Viejo, Calif., and his parents, in-laws, wife, son and daughter were among the 8,031 fans cheering him on.

"I love Southern California," he said. "That's my home. I'm glad I could pitch the no-hitter in front of everyone I love."

Texas scored all the runs Blyleven needed in the third inning with the aid of an error by Hartzell, 8-11. Jim Sundberg doubled and scored on Mike Hargrove's single. Hartzell then muffed Campaneris' sacrifice bunt and Toby Harrah later singled home two runs.

Orioles 7, Blue Jays 1
A three-run homer by Lee May backed Mike Flanagan's six-hitter as Baltimore crushed Toronto to keep alive their AL East title hopes and move to just 1½ games behind the New York Yankees.

"The half game doesn't mean anything," Baltimore manager Earl

Weaver said, "because the Yanks can still play and win it. But if they lose, it'll be down to one."

"The magic number will suit me fine when the Yankees have to win five out of four."

Tigers 5, Red Sox 4

A two-run double by rookie Steve Kemp was the key blow in Detroit's four-run seventh inning as the Tigers edged Boston. The loss dropped third-place Boston three games behind the Yankees.

Kemp's double sailed over the head of Red Sox center fielder Fred Lynn, who later complained about the soggy outfield.

"It's not just wet, but the sod is loose," said Lynn, who couldn't get enough traction to catch up to Kemp's two-out fly ball. "You can't get any jump. You can't run at all. You push off and the ground slides away."

White Sox 5, Mariners 4

Ralph Garr drove in a tiebreaking run with a ninth-inning triple, then scored the eventual winning run on Chet Lemon's sacrifice fly as Chicago downed Seattle.

Netters Down McClain

The Circleville Tiger tennis squad downed the Greenfield McClain netters in SCOL action Thursday and upped their season mark to 2-3.

Results of the match are, in singles, Jane Cole (C) defeated Kelly Hicks (G) 8-3. Deanna Crawford (C) defeated Jill McNeil (G) 8-2. Ann Miller (C) defeated Kim Copper (G) 8-2.

In doubles, Teresa Tomlinson and Theresa Isaac (C) defeated Margie Hiles and Kathy Yankie (G) 8-5. Julie Edgington and Maria Theis (C) defeated Kathy Lucas and Stephanie Dunson (G) 8-2.

In exhibition play, Kim Siniff and Diana Bensonhaver (C) defeated Glenda Benson and Kathy Lucas (G) 8-6.

"The win was a good team effort, with both singles and doubles playing very well."

Tuesday the team travels to Grove City to take on the Greyhounds.

Linksters Lose In Triangular

The CHS golf team was defeated in a triangular match Thursday against Dublin and Chillicothe. Final score of the match was Dublin, 153, Chillicothe, 158, and Circleville, 165. It was the first defeat for the Red and Black in six matches.

Alex Whaling for Dublin, and Jeff Russell of Chillicothe both shot sub-par rounds in the contest, Whaling firing a 34 and Russell carding a 35.

Other scores in the match were Matt Price, Dublin, 37; and Mike Wileman, Dublin, 39. Tiger scores were Eric Berger, 39; Mike McKelvey, 41; Tracy Wagner, 41; Scott Sanders, 42; and Jeff Meena, 43.

Today the Tigers meet the Teays Valley Vikings at the Pickaway Country Club.

Ricky Bell To Help Tampa

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Despite a bone chip in his ankle, top draft pick Ricky Bell is scheduled to start at running back Saturday when the Tampa Bay Buccaneers take on Fran Tarkenton and his National Football Conference champion Minnesota Vikings.

The heavily-favored Vikings are looking for their first victory of the new National Football League season.

The Bucs, also 0-1, are looking for their first regular-season victory ever.

Last year, the Bucs went 0-14 while the Vikings made their fourth losing trip to the Super Bowl.

Although Coach John McKay isn't expected to announce the starting lineup until this afternoon, Bucs officials say Bell has been working out in pads and is ready.

The 22-year-old University of Southern California standout has had trouble with his right ankle for about three weeks. He complained that he had lost speed in last week's 13-3 loss to Philadelphia and asked to be taken out of the game.

Bell said afterwards that it didn't hurt while he was on the field, but tightened up while he was on the bench.

Team physicians hope the chip will dissolve.

The Bucs added a sixth running back this week — Stan Winfrey, late of the Miami Dolphins — as insurance. This could allow them to rest Bell more during the games.

In grid-iron action on Sunday the New York Giants are at Dallas, Atlanta at Washington, Oakland at Pittsburgh, Seattle at Cincinnati, Baltimore at New York Jets, Chicago at St. Louis, Houston at Green Bay, New Orleans at Detroit, San Diego at Kansas City, Buffalo at Denver, Miami at San Francisco, Philadelphia at Los Angeles.

On Monday, New England visits Cleveland.

Quarterbacking the Bucs will be rookie Randy Hedberg, out of Minot State, N.D. He led Tampa Bay to a 14-0 shutout over Baltimore in the preseason but managed only 10 completions in 25 attempts for 26 net yards against the Eagles.

"The rookie in me came out," Hedberg said. "It will again. I just must learn to avoid making the same mistakes a second time."

Junior Vikes Win First

The Teays Valley Vikings eighth grade football squad downed visiting Canal Winchester by a 30-6 count Thursday afternoon.

The Teays Valley eleven scored on a pair of 15 yard runs by Kevin Parsons, a 23 yard scamper by Greg Hollenback, and added six more markers when Kevin Sexton pounced on an Indian fumble in the endzone.

Extra points were added by Parsons, Mike Moss, and Scott Keefer.

Viking coaches praised the defense, especially Brian Schooley, Mike Moss, and Kevin Parsons.

The Vikes are now 1-0, and travel to Circleville this Thursday.

Ali, Shavers Set Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — "If Shavers hits you like that it's not good," said John F.X. Condon, publicist and vice president of Madison Square Garden.

"I know it," said Ali.

That was part of a telephone conversation between Condon and the champion Wednesday night after Ali hit the floor twice while sparring with Jimmy Ellis, who is retired as a fighter.

It was no joke, Ali's trainer Angelo Dundee maintained Thursday.

Shavers' reaction following a training session Thursday at the Garden's Felt Forum was a huge grin and the comment:

"Really I think it was all a joke."

"I think he was just practicing for the 29th. He wants to know how to fall right."

The champion and the challenger were to have their pre-fight physical at the Felt Forum today for their Sept. 29 title fight at the Garden.

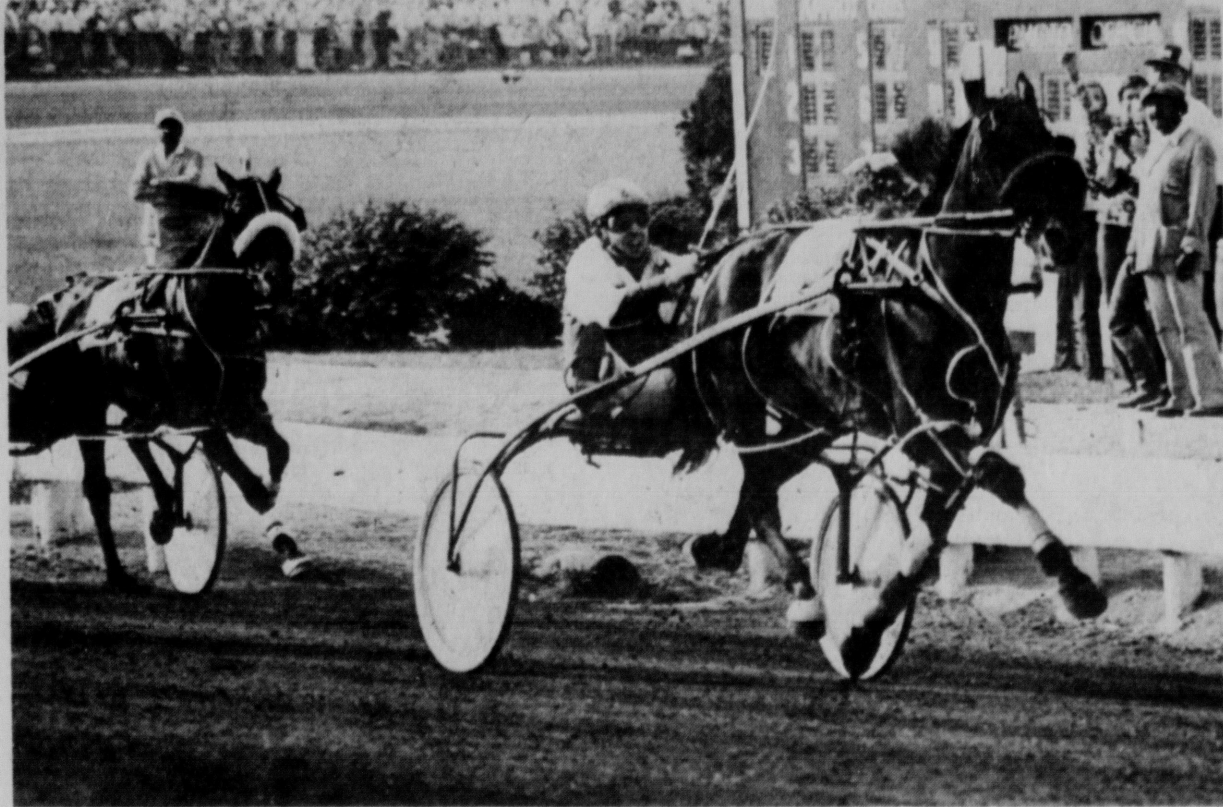

"Ali's fine," trainer Angelo Dundee told The Associated Press Thursday by telephone from the champion's camp at Deer Lake, Pa. "It was no hokum. He was relaxed and got nailed by a right uppercut. I picked him up. That was no gag. He got a kink in his neck but it has been massaged and is okay now. Thank God it happened in the gym. It'll make him aware."

"I got tagged. I was down twice and I didn't even know it," Ali had told Condon.

Ali stopped Ellis in the 12th and final round of a one-sided fight in 1971 and Shavers knocked out Ellis in the first round at the Garden in 1973.

"He hit me a good shot," recalled Shavers, who was hurt during the fight. "He has a good right hand but that was a long time ago when he was a better fighter."

Ali was to switch his training to the Felt Forum Sunday. Shavers has been working their since last Monday. The weigh-in for the bout, which will be televised nationally by NBC, will be Wednesday, the day before the fight. —

AN EASY WIN — Governor Skipper set a world's record of 1:56 1-5 for three-year-old pacers over a half mile track, and a world's record of 3:52 3-5 for two heats in winning the Little Brown Jug pacing classic at Delaware

Thursday. The times were also LBJ records. He paced the first heat of the Jug in 1:56 1-5 and is shown here winning the second heat in 1:55 2-5.

Governor's Skipper Breaks 5 World Records In Jug Win

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — Governor Skipper's sore mouth left a bitter taste only with his competitors Thursday in the Little Brown Jug.

Governor Skipper had a two-inch wood splinter removed from his gum just hours before he smashed five world records and eight Jug marks in winning the middle jewel of 3-year-old pacing's Triple Crown.

"We had a little problem this morning," conceded his driver, John Chapman. "But, being the horse that he is, he overcame it."

The Meadow Skipper colt, owned by Bill Wirtz of ice hockey's Chicago Black Hawks, now stands in the forefront of what may be the greatest crop of 3-year-old pacers in history.

He's won eight of his last nine heats against the best. Only a break in the Geers Stake at Detroit last week spoiled that string.

His $75,700 payday here sent his 1977 earnings past $342,000, No. 1 among his age and gain.

Even in the glow of victory, Chapman was worried about his horse's health. Swelling had accompanied the splinter Governor Skipper apparently picked up in his stall at the Delaware County Fairgrounds.

"I want to see how he comes out tomorrow," said Chapman, winning his first Jug in four attempts.

"I'm concerned about his mouth. That will determine our future."

Two things are certain. Governor

Skipper foiled Jade Prince's bid for a Triple Crown and, if he's healthy, will be an overwhelming choice to win the Crown's third leg, The Messenger, Nov. 12 at Roosevelt Raceway.

Jade Prince, winner of the first leg, the Cane Pace, was a badly beaten ninth and 10th behind Governor Skipper's blistering miles of 1:56 1-5 and 1:56 2-5.

Governor Skipper, seventh behind Jade Prince in the Cane, was a different horse this time. He led all eight quarters of the two races.

His opening trip accounted for two world and three Jug records. The second heat performance earned him one more world mark and two more Jug standards.

And his combined heat times of 3:52 3-5 broke two world records and four Jug marks before 39,949, a paid attendance high for the classic's 32 years.

"I had only been in three other Jugs," said the 48-year-old Chapman. But this is by far my best horse. I have one heckuva horse to beat."

The Circleville Herald, Friday September 23, 1977 11

Willie's Dillies

By A BENCHWARMER

Well, as much as I hate to admit it, I'm going to have to throw in the towel on this baseball season. My Reds were eliminated last week, and along with their elimination, the chances for Dave and I to pick up a steak dinner were also eliminated. I didn't mention our fellow Herald employees (with whom the bet was made) by name when announcement of the big bet was made back in early June, because I didn't want to embarrass them. I still won't mention them, for the same reason — (wouldn't you be embarrassed to admit you bet against the Reds for a measly steak?)

I just wonder if Bob Howsam knows what this has cost the two of us—I doubt if I could sleep at night if I were he, knowing that we have to buy these two jokers a steak.

Anyway, it is only a little over five months until the annual "rites of spring" start again in earnest, and for all you Dodgers out there on the west coast, the Reds will have a while to think all kinds of nasty things about you—then "wait 'till next year!"

The "fearless forecast" — the Tigers will leash the Bulldogs, the Braves will fizzle the Rockets, Westfall over Landmark Christian, and the Vikings will shoot down the Falcons. Also, I think the sooner the Sooners get to Columbus, the sooner they can leave, with a loss on their backs of course. In the pros, the Bengals over Seattle and the Browns will down the Patriots. One more prognostication—the Reds will win the National League west division next season. Anyone want to go for a steak dinner on it?

Until next time, have a nice day—be a good sport.

Blyleven's No-Hitter Sinks California

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

There was that awful moment when the Texas Rangers trainer walked to the mound in the eighth inning to talk to Bert Blyleven.

"I didn't know if I could throw, but even if I was going to throw underhand I wasn't going to leave," Blyleven said afterwards.

The curve-balling right-hander stayed in the game and hurled the third no-hitter of the major league season as the Rangers blanked the California Angels 6-0.

The no-hitter sparked a light American League schedule that saw the Baltimore Orioles tighten up the East Division title race while the Boston Red Sox slipped a little off the pace.

"It was like the world stopped when (Thad) Bosley swung at that last pitch," ending the game, Blyleven said.

Kings Island Open Surely No Runaway

MASON, Ohio (AP) — Perhaps they should rename it the Ohio Kings Island W-i-d-e Open. Fifty-four pro golfers were within five strokes of coleaders Tom Kite and Bill Calfee as today's second round of the $150,000 tournament got under way. Kite, looking for his first victory over the season, appeared headed for a runaway — until his blazing putter cooled off. "My putter decided to take me for a ride and I jumped on it," said the 27-year-old Texan after an early birdie binge propelled him to four-under after six holes. Ignited by a 35-foot putt on the second hole, he rammed home birdie putts of 12, 25 and 23 feet in a five-hole span. Calfee, an unknown trying to stick on the tour, produced his best round as a pro to tie Kite as the final trios straggled in. In contrast, Calfee's 33-33 round was unspectacular, but bogey-free. "I'm not thinking about winning the tournament. I'm just trying to make the cut," said Calfee, who has won only $9,495 this year and finished 202nd as a rookie a year ago. Defending champion Ben Crenshaw, his game apparently back intact after a summer slump, was a stroke off the pace with a 68. It was a disastrous day for Jack Nicklaus, who struggled to a 73, damaging his hopes for a first place in this, his final tour appearance of the year, to overtake leading money winner Tom Watson. Kite's putting exhibition came in the company of Nicklaus. "It's fun to play with people who generally play well," said Kite, who toured the front nine with a 31. "Jack pushes you and makes you play better," said Kite, who was the PGA tour's rookie of the year in 1973. Calfee, whose Tampa-based sponsorship expires shortly, was breathing easier after his near-flawless round. "A lot of what happens next year depends on what I do the last half of this year," said the 27-year-old Virginia Beach, Va., native. He said he overcame a shaky start, then found the course to his liking. "This course is suited to my game. It's a pretty demanding driving course. I don't usually do well on shorter courses because of my irons game," he said.

DEANNE CRAWFORD AND JANE COLE

By TAMMIE TUSSING
"We have an enthusiastic, hard-working group of young ladies," stated Circleville High School girls tennis team coach, Dan Campbell.

In addition to these, the team will be participating in the Ohio Tennis Coaches Association Team Tournament, which is a continuous tournament throughout the season. At the end of the season, the individual players will compete in the Ohio High School Athletics Association Tournament.
The co-captains stated that even though the team is inexperienced, they are working hard towards a successful season and would appreciate more support at their matches.

'Snoopy' Is Theme Of Homecoming

By DEANNA CRAWFORD
And TERESA TOMLINSON
Homecoming is in the air and this year it is scheduled for Sept. 30 and Oct. 1. The 1977 Homecoming theme will be "Snoopy and the Pumpkin Patch."

There will be a snake dance and pep rally Thursday starting at the Court House at 6 p.m. and ending at the High School. Bob Bensonhaver, master of ceremonies, will be officiating the pep rally and keeping the school spirit "fired up."
The big Homecoming game against Madison Plains is Friday night. The crowning of the queen and the presentation of the attendants will be held at halftime.

Saturday is the Homecoming dance starting at 8 p.m. in the high school gym. "Four Island Park" will provide the music. Tickets will be on sale all Homecoming week in the main hall during lunch periods.

This year's committee has many ideas to decorate the gymnasium with all the Snoopy characters and pumpkins. Diane Cox, Homecoming chairman, commented, "Everything's coming along fine, but we still need a lot of help."

New Teacher Likes Good School System

MRS. CAROL ALBRIGHT

By LISA LINTNER
"I think it's very good. The students are friendly and willing to cooperate," comments new teacher Mrs. Carol Albright about the Circleville school system.

Mrs. Albright says she chose CHS because she likes the school system and she lives closest to this school.

She graduated from Bowling Green University with a BS in education. She taught at Teays Valley High School last year. She also substituted for Circleville in previous years.

Mrs. Albright teaches personal typing, typing I, office practice, shorthand, and speedwriting at CHS this year as a new teacher.

Her interests include sewing, traveling and taking care of her family. Her family consists of five children: Mark 17, Athena 15, Matthew 14, and twins Timmy and Tammy 10 years old. They all attend Circleville City School.

Mrs. Albright enjoys camping with her family when they can all get together at one time.

"At this point there's nothing I dislike about Circleville", adds Mrs. Albright.

Seniors from Circleville High School are bucking down to take full advantage of an opportunity to win local, state, and national awards by demonstrating their awareness, concern, and knowledgeability about the needs and challenges that are expected to face the nation in the future.

One enterprising high school senior in the nation will win a $10,000 scholarship as the top national prize in the Century III Leaders Scholarship Program. Two students from each state and the District of Columbia will win $1,000 scholarships and the opportunity to talk with national leaders in a conference at historic Colonial Williamsburg, Va. Before the national winner is announced in Williamsburg, nine finalists will have earned $500 awards on top of their $1,000 scholarships.

"We feel the program is very worthwhile for reasons in addition to the scholarships and the Williamsburg trip," said Paul Sarchet, principal of the school. "We are encouraging seniors to participate because the Century III competition is a fine way for youngsters to become more involved with the community and social issues."

According to Sarchet, the Century III Leader Scholarship Program is a national future studies, writing, citizenship, and current events awareness competition open to high school seniors. Basically, the competition involves undergoing a current events examination and writing a brief essay outlining what the entrant thinks is a particular issue that America is likely to confront in the future and how such a challenge should be met.

The Century III program, which offers $116,500 in scholarships, is administered by the National Association of Secondary School Principals and funded by the Shell Oil Company.

The deadline for the student submission of applications is Oct. 14.

After obtaining his masters degree at Ohio University and his bachelors at Ohio State, Thaxton taught social studies and was assistant principal in Lancaster. More recently he was high school principal in Pickerington before coming to Circleville.

"Circleville seems like a very friendly community," commented Thaxton. "The faculty has been very cooperative, and the students have been very well behaved."

Thaxton enjoys all sports, fishing, and the Cincinnati Reds. He resides in Circleville with his wife and his son, who is in the second grade.

New Teacher Likes Good School System

MRS. CAROL ALBRIGHT

By LISA LINTNER
"I think it's very good. The students are friendly and willing to cooperate," comments new teacher Mrs. Carol Albright about the Circleville school system.

Mrs. Albright says she chose CHS because she likes the school system and she lives closest to this school.

She graduated from Bowling Green University with a BS in education. She taught at Teays Valley High School last year. She also substituted for Circleville in previous years.

Mrs. Albright teaches personal typing, typing 1, office practice, shorthand, and speedwriting at CHS this year as a new teacher.

Her interests include sewing, traveling and taking care of her family. Her family consists of five children: Mark 17, Athena 15, Matthew 14, and twins Timmy and Tammy 10 years old. They all attend Circleville City School.

Mrs. Albright enjoys camping with her family when they can all get together at one time.

"At this point there's nothing I dislike about Circleville," adds Mrs. Albright.

Dream Comes True For Lisa Leahy

By GREG BERRIGAN and MELISSA ALLISON

Wanting to go abroad since her sophomore year was the dream of Lisa Leahy, who just returned from a year, spent in Italy as an AFS exchange student.

Lisa was the first student to go abroad from Circleville for a whole year in the American Fields Service Club. She became interested in trying to form an AFS club and with the help of Mrs. Paula Woodward, French teacher at CHS, Lisa did this in her senior year.

When Lisa was chosen to be an AFS student, she had no idea of where she would be going. When asked if she favored any country, she stated, "I didn't care. What was important to me wasn't the country but the fact I wanted to put myself in a different culture." Before leaving Lisa worked part-time at Owens Illinois to help pay for expenses.

The first thing Lisa did when she reached Italy was to attend a language camp in a small village near Florence for 10 days. She had four hours of classes a day and the teachers spoke nothing but Italian.

Lisa was selected to stay with Annusca Campani, a school teacher. According to Lisa, to be matched up with your family you are judged by personality, your records, what the AFS has to say about you and what teachers say and what you write about yourself. Lisa said she feels that she was selected to stay with one person, instead of a couple, because she herself is independent.

After about three months Lisa said she caught on to the language.

Lisa explained that Italian families have much more of a closer bond. Between the hours of one to four all the stores and shops close, and everyone goes home to eat. There aren't many extra-curricular activities, and Lisa said most students study about six hours a day after school is out.

Young people are more involved in politics and social problems. Lisa stated, "The experience of living in a small country between two countries of super power enabled me to hear both sides and be as objective as possible, and it showed mistakes in both countries that I wouldn't normally see."

In Italy there are five years of high school. Lisa was in her fifth year of school and she commented on how hard it was. She explained that Italians studies in the latter part of high school are similar to what United States college students are taught.

Lisa said she was very fortunate to be liked by the people in her community. She said people were curious to talk to her because she was American and they had many questions to ask her so this helped her meet people.

Lisa said the Italian students had to take English and she would sometimes assist the teacher in teaching. She taught English part-time at a private school. She used the money for traveling and expenses. She explained that to buy film for 36 pictures and have them developed cost $20.

Christmas isn't as big in Italy as it is in America. Easter is celebrated more by the Italians.

Student strikes were common in the town Lisa lived in. She said that she was out of school more than in school because students would protest against the school systems.

While in Italy Lisa visited Paris, and Switzerland. She was not allowed to leave Italy without permission. Driving cars is less common in Italy than in America. Lisa said that she and her friends would always take a bus or train.

Lisa feels she has gained so much on her trip abroad, and she said, "I will do a lot better in college than I would have a year ago."

Lisa felt it was much more painful to leave Italy than it was to leave the states because she knew she would be coming back to the states and she would be seeing her friends in America again, whereas she doesn't know when she'll be returning to Italy or seeing her friends there again. She said people in Italy are so emotional and it was very easy to form a close relationship with them.

She wants to return to Italy again and she thinks there is a possibility that Annusca may be visiting the states for Christmas.

Before going abroad Lisa was going to study medicine at Ohio State, but she said now she wants to go into something that deals with people. She also wants to take a language.

When asked what her advice was to other AFS students hoping to go abroad, Lisa stated, "Don't have any expectations, go with an open mind, take one day at a time and do your best."

Kenny Dale High On Country Charts

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Kenny Dale has gotten off welfare to become one of the brightest new country music singers in years.

Some two years ago, Dale couldn't find work and his wife collected food stamps.

"It was really a bad scene," said Dale, 25, of Houston, Tex.

Then he recorded "Bluest Heartache of the Year" for a small record company in Texas. It became so popular that a major label bought the master and released it nationally.

It became one of the year's big country hits and turned Dale's life around. His second national release, "Shame, Shame On Me (I Had Planned to Be Your Man)" is now high on the charts also. And he's released his first album, "Bluest Heartache."

"Just when you think things are hopeless, something great happens," Dale said in an interview in the office of his booking agent during a stop here between engagements.

"It was like I was in a well and someone pulled me out of it."

In late 1975 and early 1976, he simply couldn't find a job, either in music or otherwise.

"I couldn't get a job anywhere for six months. The bills were piling up and I was on the verge of starving and in a deep state of depression. My wife collected food stamps."

He finally was able to get some engagements to tide him over until "Bluest Heartache of the Year" was recorded and drew raves from critics as one of the prettiest songs in years.

"I did every benefit I could," said Dale, a former house painter. "The most important thing is keeping your name in front of people."

"I used to dream and I still do. I've had dreams all my life, and now that they've come true I don't believe it. I'm very proud and excited. I'm in a numb state of mind."

He tends to attribute his success to luck as much as talent.

"I've been very lucky. I'm in the C section very average. I'm just a country boy who's never had anything. When you're poor, you appreciate it more when you get something. I don't care for a lot of money; it would probably ruin me."

"I'm very thankful to the fans. I feel like they've taken somebody new and helped him out."

"People tell me not to change. I am rather happy-go-lucky and I work hard. 'bighead' attitude. I just want to be recognized as an artist and a nice guy."

True science fiction readers look forward to Frank Herbert's novels. "The Dosadi Experiment" is the story of a race of people imprisoned for centuries on the planet Dosadi, and the man who must find out what's going on and must correct it.

Hitler, the Gestapo, and a determined assassin. When a boy miraculously survives a mass execution, he determines to have revenge on Hitler, the man responsible for killing his parents.

Toni Morrison is praised for her precise prose. Her third novel, "Song Of Solomon" is the story of Macon Dead, Jr. Born into the wealthiest black family in a Michigan town, he inherits family troubles past and present.

"Cressida" by Calre Darcy is another of the Regency novels so well done by this author. Cressida Calverton takes on Regency London, using her wits, high spirits, determination and beauty to get what she wants.

"A Sea-Grave Tree" by Rosamond Lehmann is an enchanted love story. A young woman jilted by her paramour and a handsome young man crippled by an air crash meet and fall in love on a small island in the Caribbean.

Warren Adler's "The Sunset Gang" tells the story of residents in a Florida retirement community. It's a lively, courageous group and they're not about to pack it all in! Not by a long shot.

Crime Club fans will have new titles including "The Pretty Pink Shroud" by E. X. Ferrars and "The Tough Get Going" by George Bagby.

A new Doubleday anthology, "The Arts And Beyond" plus "Tomorrow's Son" by Robert Hoskins are just in for the science fiction readers.

People take the spotlight in this week's non-fiction titles. The subject of an upcoming TV special, the life of Jimmy Caruthers is told in "Summer of Triumph." The inspiring story of this young race car driver is similar to that of "Brian's Song."

Anne Edwards has written a definitive, intimate portrait of Vivien Leigh, the Scarlett O'Hara of "Gone With The Wind." Well-written, the author brings this complex lady to life in "Vivien Leigh: A Biography."

Margaret Halsey's autobiography, "No Laughing Matter" tells of the personal problems resulting from her early and unrepented success. Her young super stardom coupled with her WASP upbringing contributed heavily to these problems.

"Myself When Young" by Daphne du Maurier is really a story about the shaping of a writer. The famous author, working from her diaries, recalls her life from age three to 23. This adventure in memory has the same wit, romance and haunting mystery that the author brings to her novels.

"Onassis, An Extravagant Life" by Frank Brady is the rags-to-riches life of billionaire Aristotle Onassis. It touches on his personality, his conquests and his successes.

"The Luxembourg Run" by Stanley Ellin is a story of vengeance. David Shaw, courier for a syndicate of smugglers, is betrayed by his bosses. His bent for revenge takes strange twists and results in a story filled with suspense.

For a real thriller, try "Firefox" by Craig Thomas. When Russia develops an advanced warplane and America is unable to catch up, Mitchell Gant is given the task of stealing the plane. The resulting story is a gripping, believable thriller.

"The Last Train From Berlin" by George Blagowidow is a novel about

Cleveland Lady Wins $25,000 in Ohio Lottery

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mrs. Jewell Henne said there was no special method to her winning the Ohio Lottery drawing Thursday. "I just picked a letter and said it."

That was all it took for the 54-year-old mother of three to go home with $25,000. She bought her winning ticket at her hometown grocery store in Lewisburg.

Mrs. Henne, a housewife, said she plans to use her winnings to do a little traveling. She said she would like to see Florida because she's never been there and she would also like to buy a car.

Although she said she felt "just wonderful" after the big win, she admitted she was still a little nervous, adding with a laugh, "I've been nervous for a week."

Other 50-cent winners were: Mary Bogle, Shaker Heights $6,500; Helen Amata, Lakewood, $7,300; Clara Labuda, Seven Hills, $7,300. Last week's big winner, Robert Ratzow, did not add to his $25,000.

Winners of the TV Bonus instant game were: Joseph F. Conroy Jr., Ridgeville, $50,000; Ann Gardner, Cleveland, $10,000; and Jim Lounsbury, Cleveland, $5,000.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Stress your first-rate initiative and all-around capability now. Pay no heed to interfering persons. Consider the production of that top effort a challenge.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Personal relationships now governed by exceptionally good influences. A fine day for holding conferences, meeting with others to negotiate plans for the common good.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Let some matters ride while you reorganize thoughts, plans, new methods of approach. A day of mixed influences - one which calls for astuteness, keen judgment.

High Spy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Portrait Gallery, a branch of the Smithsonian Institution, has acquired what Marvin Sadik, director, says is the only known life portrait of Revolutionary War hero Enoch Crosby, master spy. The portrait, which was done by the studio of Samuel Waldo and William Jewett, was commissioned by John R. Peters of New York and painted in 1830. It belonged to Peters' descendants before passing into the hands of the gallery.

Crosby, a hero in his own time, was considered one of the most skillful spies in the revolution. He worked at times directly with George Washington. Crosby was also the model for James Fenimore Cooper's novel, "The Spy."

Jamaica marked its independence in 1962 after 307 years as a British colony.

Club Lawyers Approve Naming Insurance Firms As Co-Defendants

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Lawyers for the Beverly Hills Supper Club told the U.S. District Court they had no objection to insurance companies being added as co-defendants in 61 civil suits seeking $1.5 billion damages for the deaths of 164 persons.

"These defendants do not object to the filing of such an amendment on the addition of such cause of action or additional defendants," said attorney James G. Osborne.

Osborne represents Richard Schilling and his three sons, who operated the plush supper club which burned May 28.

Osborne's memorandum also suggested that Celina Mutual Insurance Co. be one of the firms included. Celina was one of the insurers of the FAIR Plan which covered the club. The FAIR Plan was set up by the federal government to cover high risk clients.

The motion was in response to another filed by attorneys for the victims who asked the court to add Insurance Services Office (ISO), New York, N.Y.; Kentucky Property Insurance Placement Facility (KP-

Cuban-Americans Return To Homeland

HOMESTEAD AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — The last time Armando Rodriguez tried to come to America was by wooden dinghy, in 1968. He was caught and spent 4½ years in a Cuban prison.

This time a grinning and exuberant Rodriguez strode off a plush jet cradling a teen-aged daughter in his arms.

He was one of the 24 Cuban nationals and 31 U.S. citizens allowed to leave Cuba in the latest moderation of the backfence tension between Fidel Castro's government and the United States.

After discussions last month with Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, Castro sent word through Church that the Cuban relatives also could leave, setting up the flight Thursday aboard an Eastern Airlines 727 chartered by the State Department.

It was the largest group arrival since the conclusion of the Freedom Flights in 1973 that brought nearly 261,000 Cubans to the United States.

The American citizens had always been free to leave. But many remained because their families could not go with them.

Forecast For The Fields

By The Associated Press
Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

Showers will move into the state again tonight and are likely across the state Saturday. A cold front is moving out of the Plains and should complete its push across Ohio by midday Sunday.

FIELD OPERATIONS — Field delays continue to plague Ohio agriculture interests. Some northern sections are still too wet to work, and additional rain this weekend will lengthen delays. Central and southern sections of the state should get another complete day in the fields.

HARVEST — Mature corn and soybeans in central and southern sections of the state will drydown at moderate rates today. Crops at harvest level moisture should be hurried in. Many corn fields suffered stalk damage due to insects or disease earlier in the season, and weakened stalks are most prone to wind or weather damage. Harvest now could prevent losses. Extension specialists at Ohio State are also recommending harvest as quickly as possible for mature soybeans. The extremely wet weather has been excellent for the activation and spread of seed rot organisms. Delayed harvest could cause poor quality seed and reduced yields.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLE HARVEST — Harvest delays are again expected for fruits and vegetables. Potato harvest has suffered due to wet fields, and additional delays are likely. Tomato fields are still soft and more rains could again keep mechanical harvesters out of the fields.

HAYING — Hay on the ground should be hurried in. New cuts will suffer through periods of wetting. Where new cuts are a must, a cut made immediately before the rains has the best chance of weathering through showers with little quality loss.

Deputies Investigate Four Accidents; Seven Injured

Seven people were injured in four accidents investigated by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies.

Four were hurt in a 12:36 a.m. Friday single-car crash on Neiswander Road, seven-tenths of a mile west of Route 674.

Edgar E. Kirk, 21, Columbus, driver of the car, told Deputy Ken Henn that he was driving west. His car failed to negotiate a curve and traveled off the road for 200 feet before striking a fence and tree stump. Kirk was partially ejected from the vehicle as it rolled over at least two times.

Kirk suffered a chipped bone in his neck and multiple contusions and abrasions. Others injured were Henrietta Johnson, 18, Columbus, broken collarbone, lacerated right shoulder, multiple contusions and abrasions; Alvin K. Orsbon, 18, Columbus, chipped bone in leg, lacerated left arm, multiple contusions and abrasions; and Sue Ann Riffe, 16, Columbus, sprained left wrist, laceration to the lower lip.

The four injured people were given emergency treatment by members of the Bloom Twp. Emergency Squad. They were also treated at Mt. Carmel East Hospital, Columbus.

Kirk was charged with reckless operation.

Clark M. Maughmer, 32, Route 3, suffered minor cuts and had shattered glass removed from his eyes following an 11 p.m. Thursday accident on the Florence Chapel Pike.

Maughmer was treated at the scene by the Circleville Emergency Medical Team, according to Deputy R. L. Phillips, and was given additional treatment at Berger Hospital.

Deputy Phillips said Maughmer was driving west when he failed to negotiate a left curve about a mile west of the Commercial Point Road. His car drove off the right side into a ditch and continued through a fence and yard on property owned by Howard Stevenson, 19920 Commercial Point Road.

Maughmer's car slid sideways through another fence, rolled over, and came to rest on its top.

Frank Hassett, 32, 526 Maize Court, suffered multiple cuts and abrasions when he lost control of his motorcycle 9 p.m. Thursday on Route 188, a tenth of a mile east of Stout Road.

Deputy Jim Fite said Hassett was driving west when he lost control and drove off the right side and into a ditch. He was treated at Berger Hospital.

Eva Marie Webb, 48, 1945 Sioux Drive, suffered cuts to her forehead and left thumb when her car was run into by a horse Wednesday morning.

Deputy Ken Henn said Ms. Webb was driving north on the Ashville Pike when the horse jumped from a field and ran south into her car.

The brown horse, which weighed about 650 pounds, suffered extensive and serious injuries in the accident and had to be killed by Deputy Henn.

Club Lawyers Approve Naming Insurance Firms As Co-Defendants

COVINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Lawyers for the Beverly Hills Supper Club told the U.S. District Court they had no objection to insurance companies being added as co-defendants in 61 civil suits seeking $1.5 billion damages for the deaths of 164 persons.

"These defendants do not object to the filing of such an amendment on the addition of such cause of action or additional defendants," said attorney James G. Osborne.

Osborne represents Richard Schilling and his three sons, who operated the plush supper club which burned May 28.

Osborne's memorandum also suggested that Celina Mutual Insurance Co. be one of the firms included. Celina was one of the insurers of the FAIR Plan which covered the club. The FAIR Plan was set up by the federal government to cover high risk clients.

The motion was in response to another filed by attorneys for the victims who asked the court to add Insurance Services Office (ISO), New York, N.Y.; Kentucky Property Insurance Placement Facility (KP-SF), also known as FAIR Plan, the Hartford Insurance Group, Hartford, Conn., and the Market Insurance Co., as defendants.

U.S. District Judge Carl Rubin has not ruled on the request.

The victims' lawyers contend the insurance associations and companies were negligent in not forcing correction of alleged fire and building hazards, or warning potential customers. The lawyers charged the firms were content merely to raise insurance rates for Beverly Hills.

The lawyers also said the assets of the insurers was enough to cover "deep pocket" claims of the defendants.

So far, 61 suits have been filed seeking damages of $1.5 billion.

The latest suit, filed in Campbell Circuit Court, seeks $8,950,000 for the estate of William E. Arthur, 57, of Covington.

Defendants in the new suit named insurance companies for the first time, including FAIR Plan, Hartford Insurance Group and "unknown" insurance companies participating in the FAIR Plan.

Forecast For The Fields

By The Associated Press

Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:

Showers will move into the state again tonight and are likely across the state Saturday. A cold front is moving out of the Plains and should complete its push across Ohio by midday Sunday.

FIELD OPERATIONS — Field delays continue to plague Ohio agriculture interests. Some northern sections are still too wet to work, and additional rain this weekend will lengthen delays. Central and southern sections of the state should get another complete day in the fields.

HARVEST — Mature corn and soybeans in central and southern sections of the state will drydown at moderate rates today. Crops at harvest level moisture should be hurried in. Many corn fields suffered stalk damage due to insects or disease earlier in the season, and weakened stalks are most prone to wind or weather damage. Harvest now could prevent losses. Cuban-Americans Return To Homeland

HOMESTEAD AIR FORCE BASE, Fla. (AP) — The last time Armando Rodriguez tried to come to America was by wooden dinghy, in 1968. He was caught and spent 4½ years in a Cuban prison.

This time a grinning and exuberant Rodriguez strode off a plush jet cradling a teen-aged daughter in his arms.

He was one of the 24 Cuban nationals and 31 U.S. citizens allowed to leave Cuba in the latest moderation of the backfence tension between Fidel Castro's government and the United States.

After discussions last month with Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, Castro sent word through Church that the Cuban relatives also could leave, setting up the flight Thursday aboard an Eastern Airlines 727 chartered by the State Department.

It was the largest group arrival since the conclusion of the Freedom Flights in 1973 that brought nearly 261,000 Cubans to the United States.

The American citizens had always been free to leave. But many remained because their families could not go with them.

"All I ask is that they let me die and be buried in America," said Luis Rivera, the first refugee to leave the plane. He later spotted an American flag and saluted crisply. Rivera said he had served with U.S. Armed Forces in the World War II invasion of Normandy.

"We're here," cried Eva Cejas, embracing her niece, Lucy Villa, at a nearby Miami hotel. They had not seen each other for 17 years.

The Rodriguez family was typical of Cubans who benefitted from Castro's announcement Aug. 11. Rodriguez, his wife, Mayda, and three of their teen-aged daughters are Cuban citizens. They were allowed on the flight because one daughter, 18-year-old Irene, is a U.S. citizen. She was born in Tampa, Fla., when the family lived there before returning to Cuba in 1961.

Rodriguez, 38, caught the eyes of many as he carried his daughter, Deborah, 13, from the plane to a wheelchair. Her feet were swathed in bandages from surgery last month.

"When the plane touched down, we wept," Rodriguez said, aided by an interpreter. "I'll never go back."

The family has no money, Rodriguez said.
